Deserters Back In Conservative Ranks

Members Who Left Party Fold Welcomed Back at Annual Meeting

Former members of the Conservative Party in Victoria who separated to run on different tickets at the last provincial general election were welcomed back into the fold at the annual meeting of the Victoria Conservative Association yesterday evening. After the names were read out at the meeting Senator G. H. Barnard was called upon to welcome them back. It was merely a formality, the Senator said. They were always Conservatives.

All officers were elected without a fight for any office, most of the offices being filled by re-election. The meeting was unanimously in favor of calling a provincial party convention as soon as possible to name a leader.

With the president, Hugh Allan, on the platform were Senator Barnard, Senator R. P. Green, C. H. Dickie, M. P. D. B. Plunkett, M. P. H. J. Barber, M. P. and R. A. Wootton.

ALWAYS CONSERVATIVES

At the opening the president explained a number of men who were running at the last election, not as Conservatives, but whom they knew to be Conservatives had been invited to attend the meeting. He named James Beatty, W. C. Moresby, Canon Joshua Hinchcliffe, former Minister of Education, J. W. McKenzie, former Minister of Mines, Capt. Macgregor Mackintosh and Reginald Hayward as among those invited and present at the meeting.

Herbert Anson, M. P. P., was invited but not present, but sent a letter in which he said good wishes that success would crown the efforts to bury the past and revitalize the future of the party.

The Senator gave it as his opinion the C.C.P. would go the way of the United Farmers and similar parties. They would not, he said, be a factor in the next fight, which would be a battle between Conservatives and Liberals.

After the Senator had spoken, the chairman stated he had neglected to read in the list of members back in the party and at the meeting the names of Brigadier Sutherland Brown, Col. H. T. Goodland, and F. W. Crowhurst.

CONFIDENCE IN FUTURE

The president read his annual report, which said the year had been one of progress and progress. They started the year somewhat divided, but realized this was only a temporary condition and they kept always headed to the goal of true Conservatism. They had received good support and although their work had not been spectacular it had been effective. Upward of the whole of the year, he said, he had confidence and hope in the future.

The provincial government, however, he added, had not changed its position in regard to the matter, but there were many features which required careful study before the act could be proclaimed.

ROBBED TWICE IN MONTH

St. Petersburg, Fla., Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—To Gilbert Brannan, enough is enough. In a "notice to burglar," published in the personal columns of a local newspaper, he said: "You robbed me twice in September. Enough's enough. Lay off me in October."

AIDING HUBBY FLIER

Accompanied by her pilot-husband, Bessie Howard, Maxine Howard, above, twenty-three-year-old blonde, will handle the controls on her speed flight across the country from Burbank, California, to New York, in an attempt to break Roscoe Turner's west-east transcontinental mark of 10 hours 3 minutes, and to set a new record for the return flight. Pilot Gordon Irel also will accompany Mrs. Howard.

Frank Mulliner presented the treasurer's report, which he said was not as bright as in the days of yore when we were prosperous, but showed the association owed no money and had a balance of $60.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

R. A. Wootton presided while the election of officers took place. Hugh Allan was the only nomination for president, and applause greeted the announcement of his re-election. W. C. Moresby was elected first vice-president; Mrs. M. J. Roberts, second vice-president; P. G. Mulliner, treasurer, and F. A. Willis, secretary.

Mrs. W. C. Moresby and F. Mulliner, who acted last year, were named to represent the association on the executive of the B.C. Conservative Association. To attend the annual meeting of the B.C. Conservative Association F. A. Willis, R. D. Harvey, Brigadier Sutherland Brown and Col. H. T. Goodland were named.

FULL OF ZEAL

With the election of officers over, Mr. Wootton said he had been honored by being elected first vice-president of the B.C. Conservative Association and that capacity had traveled Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands a great deal. He had found Conservatives full of zeal and ready for the fray. Old-line sage-wise Liberals were sold for the party and its leader. He conveyed greetings from Dr. Patterson, president of the B.C. Conservative Association.

Without discussion the meeting went on record in favor of a convention of the Conservative Party being held as soon as possible for the purpose of naming a leader. The executive of the association had gone on record to this effect and many of the wards had also done so. It would strengthen their hands if the meeting passed a motion to this effect. The election of a leader, of course, will be the main business, said Mr. Allan.

WANT A CONVENTION

R. D. Harvey moved the resolution immediately, and it was carried without debate.

The names of those who had returned to the party were brought forward again, and at this stage the president said, as they had not recently belonged to ward organizations, they had not been elected to the executive. He thought it would be a good idea if an invitation were extended to them to attend executive meetings. This was taken, and another letter. "We needed help with our fuel bill, and clothes for the children, and both were forthcoming when they were needed, when I applied to your officers. Thanks very much. I hope to be able to do as much myself for some needy person."

Campaign headquarters have been established at No. 3 Winch Building, Fort Street, and there Stewart G. Clark is in charge as campaign manager. Workers during the campaign will operate from that office, and there all business connected with the drive will be carried out. All subscriptions will be voluntary and may be paid for immediately or spread monthly throughout the year.

hearts we saw the result of by-elections in Nova Scotia, Ontario and Saskatchewan, but they were flashes in the pan which will be overridden," he said. Mr. Dickie blamed the by-election defeats on the era of discontent which affected Canada as it did the whole world.

Canada was, under Premier Bennett's sound policies, regaining its stability at a greater pace than any country in the world and was in a far better position than the United States, Mr. Dickie claimed. He eulogized Premier Bennett's efforts towards securing beneficial trade treaties, which he claimed were proving a big factor in putting Canada on the road back to prosperity.

Premier Bennett was no autocrat. He was no man with an iron heel. At the caucus he sought the advice and ideas of the members of his party, but the fact remained that in finance and matters in general he knew twice as much as any other man in the House of Commons.

MR. BARBER Senator Green briefly introduced Mr. Barber, federal member for the Fraser Valley. Mr. Barber said his office as a member of the House of Commons was next to that of the Victoria member, and he assured the meeting Mr. Plunkett was on the job all the time. "You can't judge a man by the speeches he makes in the House or the index in Hansard but by the general interest he takes in your problems," said Mr. Barber.

He reiterated expressions of party optimism voiced by other speakers. "By-elections do not cut any ice. They are all flashes in the pan, as Mr. Dickie said," commented the speaker. "When we hear the sound of the trumpet and Mr. Bennett strides across the country the Conservative Party will be as strong as ever."

Unprovided for expenditures, emigration of 750,000 from Southern Europe at a time when settlers were not needed, and an adverse trade balance of $110,000,000, were pointed to by the speaker as legacies of the Liberal government left for the Conservative government when it entered office in 1930.

Premier Bennett was living up to his pledge. Under his leadership the unfavorable trade balance had been converted to a favorable balance of $134,000,000. Business had been increased with fifty-one foreign countries. Empire trade had been increased by $76,000,000, and treaties which Premier Bennett had sponsored were of particular interest to British Columbia.

"Don't feel disappointed about the by-elections. There is not a day I do not have some good sensible liberal come to me and say, 'Thank God we have had Bennett in power during the last few years,'" Mr. Barber concluded.

MR. PLUNKETT Mr. Plunkett said it was a happy occasion to have two re-elected senators present and the old members back in the party. It had been a happy meeting. For a dissenting voice had been heard. There was no doubt about the future of the Conservative Party in Victoria.

Mr. Plunkett described the remarks used against Premier Bennett. He was connected with the big interest as just subtle criticism. The speaker knew of no instance where he had favored big interests at the expense of the small. He had established the central bank in face of opposition from some of the leading bankers. He had increased the corporation tax, the tax on banks, the income tax on higher incomes. He had taxed big gold corporations to lift the tax on sugar. Premier Bennett moved the resolution which started the inquiry into massed buying. He worked eighteen hours a day and gave his time, money and everything possible in the interest of his country.

"We often say if we could take all the electors to the House to see Mr. Mackenzie King in action for a session, not one vote would be cast for him. Have you ever heard Mr. Mackenzie King make one definite statement as to what he would do if he got in power?" asked Mr. Plunkett.

The meeting closed with an expression of opinion from the president that the meeting had proved in historical one as proving the party in Victoria could arise above all petty differences.

AGA KHAN'S SON

Philharmonic Launched Here

Harry Langley Forms New Society; Engages Noted Conductor and Composer

The son of the Aga Khan, fabulously wealthy Oriental potentate, is shown at play at the fashionable French resort, Aix-les-Bains. The young-scholar will soon be two years old.

Formation of a philharmonic society in Victoria is announced by Harry Langley. Three grand operas, Verdi's "Il Trovatore," Gounod's "Faust," and Wagner's "Lohengrin" will be presented here during the winter season, with artists going into rehearsal almost at once for the inaugural production in December. The operas will be presented in their entirety in concert form, without costumes or scenery.

For musical director and conductor, he has appointed Basil Hornall, who has an outstanding record not only as a producer in various parts of the world, but as a composer of note. Local artists will be used in the chorus and in the leading roles, although Mr. Langley said it was his intention to use local artists when it is found possible to entrust them with principal roles. A full opera orchestra will be engaged.

Mr. Hornall was the former conductor of the Carl Rosa Opera Company in England, and later became director for the Boston and Chicago English opera companies. He was also guest conductor for the Montreal Grand Opera Company. His own grand operas, "Crisis" and "Cleopatra," have been staged for runs in England and the United States, the latter having been played for sixty-five performances. He has also composed a number of comic operas, including "The Queen of the Fair," and "The Bandit Prince." He is well known to British Columbia music lovers, as it was who three years ago was engaged by the B.C. Electric Company in a series of operatic broadcasts.

Bail Is Raised For Picture Destroyer

Associated Press White Plains, N.Y., Oct. 5.—Jonas Lie, "Anybody" of the National Academy of Design, today had put up $500 cash bail for the freedom of John Smiuske, unemployed house painter who is under a six-month jail sentence for throwing acid on an anonymous artist's lampoon of President Roosevelt and the New Deal. Smiuske has been in jail pending the outcome of an appeal.

"No person has a right to destroy a work of art," Lie commented, but added he had not made up his mind whether "The Nightmare of 1934," the picture which Smiuske damaged, was "a work of art."

"Anybody," he said, "I think this man has been punished enough already."

Man Owes $7,540 In Liquor Fines

Associated Press Joliet, Ill., Oct. 5.—If he gets incarcerated for the 1,049th time Joe Sheridan, fifty-one, will go "on the wagon" for a year.

"You have come up before me 1,044 times for drinking, and more than 500 times you have taken the pledge," said the judge severely. "Each time you were fined and never paid. You now owe the city $7,540."

The magistrate warned Sheridan in freeing him again that a year on the state penal farm would mark his next court appearance.

X-RAYS NOW FROM MERCURY

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Editor Berkeley, Calif., Oct. 5.—X-rays from mercury, an entirely new source for such radiation, were announced yesterday evening from the University of California.

The discovery that mercury will produce X-rays was the outgrowth of a new type of high power vacuum tube with voltages not hitherto available to science. The process was described in The Physical Review by Wesley N. Coates and David H. Sloan of the university's radiation laboratory, department of physics.

The new tube causes particles of matter of atomic smallness to travel with tremendous speeds through a series of small tubes. The driving force of each tube is an electric field. The method resembles shooting shells out of a series of cannon coupled together end to end.

CLASHES SEEN IN MEXICAN CITIES

Man Killed During Religious Disorders in Puebla

Associated Press
Mexico City, Oct. 5.—One man was killed and three suffered injuries from which they are expected to die in religious disorders in Puebla yesterday.

A crowd of several hundred, comprised chiefly of women and students, protested violently against the confiscation of the Teresian College, recently ordered taken over by the courts.

Police, greatly outnumbered, fired over the heads of the demonstrators. Then persons on rooftops answered with pistol shots and a hail of stones. Tear gas was ineffective and police had to call troops to restore order. One man in the crowd was killed and many were hurt by bullets and stones.

In Mexico City students shouting "Down With Calles" (former President Plutarco Elias Calles, strong man behind the government), stoned the building of the government newspaper, El Nacional, breaking more than a score of windows. Later they paraded to the Chamber of Deputies, where speakers attacked the government's plan for instituting "Socialistic education," and demanded liberty of education.

A proposal to reform article three of the constitution to make Socialistic teaching compulsory is scheduled to come before Congress next Monday and has the support of an overwhelming number of members. In addition to the endorsement of Gen. Calles and President-elect Lazaro Cardenas.

GRAIN TRADE CONTROL URGED

Calgary, Oct. 5.—Advocating a federal government board to supervise operation of the grain trade, Exchange, Premier R. G. Reid of Alberta declared here yesterday that in his opinion it was foolish so far as the interests of the Dominion were concerned, to have the Exchange run by private interests.

"It is all right when people actually are selling wheat which is there," said Mr. Reid, "but when they sell wheat that is not there, then it is different."

The Premier favored operation of the Exchange along the lines followed at Chicago, where the United States Government supervises operations. A Canadian federal government board, he said, would require power to regulate the whole business of grain trading so as to avoid all abuses which had been discovered in the past.

Municipal Union Re-elects Officers

Kamloops, Oct. 5.—The Union of B.C. Municipalities will hold its convention next year at Harrison Hot Springs.

This year's meeting, one of the most important in the history of the union, was concluded here yesterday with the re-election of the full slate of officers to carry before the provincial government the various measures favored by the convention.

The officers are: President—Mayor A. Love of Grand Forks; executive, Mayor David Leeming, Victoria; first vice-president, Reeve J. T. Brown, Surrey; second vice-president, Clerk R. R. F. Sewell, Saanich; secretary-treasurer, and Alderman G. C. Miller, Vancouver; Reeve H. G. McDonald, Coquitlam; Commissioner Lane, Mission; Reeve William Crouch, Saanich; Clerk R. F. Blandy, Oak Bay; Reeve J. B. Leyland, West Vancouver; City Treasurer A. J. Pilkington of Vancouver and Reeve C. E. Oliver of Penticton.

AID FOR NEEDY PRAIRIE PEOPLE

Canadian Press
Toronto, Oct. 5.—The national relief committee of the United Church of Canada yesterday evening announced it had issued an appeal to United Church people in the Dominion to assist fellow-Canadians of the prairie provinces who are in need.

Rev. R. B. Cochrane, chairman of the committee, said: "From information in our hands, the need in Saskatchewan is as great as in 1931, if not greater than in that peak year, and in southwestern Manitoba there are thirteen dried-out municipalities this year, as compared with eight in 1933."

Mr. and Mrs. Smith escaped serious injury, but Robert Heard, thirty-four, assistant production manager for the Imperial Oil Company here, was taken to a hospital suffering from a severe scalp wound.

When it struck a loose stretch of gravel on the highway near Dalroy, the car, driven by Heard, skidded into a ditch, struck a telephone pole and overturned.

Early in June Mr. Smith was seriously injured in an automobile accident and was in a hospital for a considerable time.

SPEAKS AT BERLIN FOR GREAT BRITAIN

Man Killed During Religious Disorders in Puebla

Associated Press
London, Oct. 5.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, back in London today after his long holiday in Canada and Newfoundland, was feeling in the best of spirits—but his political future was a prime subject of unofficial speculation.

Even as the head of the national government returned yesterday, his old party, the Laborites, were framing a new platform which calls for aggressive socialistic measures on the advent of the next Labor government; while the Conservatives, his new colleagues, who are in overwhelming majority in Parliament and in the cabinet, were strengthening Tory policies.

The divergence between Labor and the Conservatives was never so great as it is to-day.

ROOSEVELT'S STATEMENTS
The Premier arrived in London from Liverpool with his daughter, Deborah, talking delightedly of his holiday experiences and commenting on President Roosevelt's references to the way Britain had grappled with the depression.

He remarked he had just read a report of President Roosevelt's speech of last Sunday "in which he pointed out it was not by a 'do nothing' policy that this country had made progress out of the depression."

"He is in the position of being able to survey us from afar," Mr. MacDonald added. "As President Roosevelt remarked with accuracy, no intelligent observer can accuse this country of undue orthodoxy in the present emergency. Where orthodoxy has appeared a wise guide, we have been orthodox; where the orthodoxy of the last few generations has appeared to cease to correspond with conditions, we have been unorthodox and have heaved out new lines."

APPEAL FOR COMMON FRONT

Premier Doumergue Says Civil War Would Mean Foreign War For France

Canadian Press from Havas
Paris, Oct. 5.—Civil war, with foreign war as its inevitable consequence, would face France should the wrong party get into power, Premier Gaston Doumergue declared yesterday evening in an address to the people of France.

He launched an appeal to the citizens to drop party politics and form a "common front of patriotism" against the Communist-Socialist United Front.

The real purpose of the united front was the destruction of all that had been gained by the great revolution, he asserted.

The Premier opened with a discussion of his programme for governmental reforms along constitutional lines. These, he said, were simple, clear and justified by the situation. "All my initiatives, all my plans for state reform," said the premier, "are meant to avert, in France, a dictatorship either of one man or several men, or even of a vanquished country."

"Civil war to-morrow would mean foreign war almost immediately," he said. "France's future is at stake. To act to succeed, as the present moment, there must be, for some time, something better than a truce. There must be a unity of heart and will. Party feelings must be dropped."

NEW GAMBLING REVENUE URGED

Licensing Experiment in Montreal Is Advocated By Alderman

Canadian Press
Montreal, Oct. 5.—Suggestion that Montreal should increase its revenue by licensing gambling houses at $50,000 a year, bookmakers' establishments at $10,000 a year and crap games at $5,000, was made yesterday by Alderman J. H. Brien, Rosemount ward.

"Betting at race tracks is not illegal," said the alderman. "Why then should it be off the track? You and I and everyone know bookmakers are flourishing all over the city despite the best efforts of the police to keep them down. You just cannot do it. The more you round them, and the more they drive them, and the more they drive them, the more they drive them."

"These places cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars a year in police activities. They contribute not a cent. Why not save the police money and collect fees from them?"

FIRE CLOSES LOGGING CAMP

Canadian Press
Duncan, Oct. 5.—The camp of the Mount Sicker Logging Company at Mount Sicker has been closed for several days because of a fire of unknown origin which destroyed a loading donkey, two logging cars and some felled and bucked timber.

E. W. Munn, official of the company, reported that quick action on the part of the crew prevented further damage.

Mounties at New York Horse Show

Associated Press
New York, Oct. 5.—For the first time in its history, the forthcoming New York Horse Show, November 7, will have a detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police as participants.

A detachment of thirty "Mounties"—including one officer and one sergeant—and their horses, will appear in answer to an invitation to attend. A team of four Canadian army officers also will participate, as in past years.

Newspaper Office Razed By Students

Canadian Press from Havas
Bucharest, Oct. 5.—Fifty students, members of an anti-Semitic group, yesterday evening razed the editorial offices of the newspaper Paca and assaulted the chief editor and one of his assistants.

The two victims, seriously injured, were taken to a hospital.

The raid, in which the offices were wrecked, was ascribed to vengeance for an editorial attacking the leader of the group.

WOMAN SAYS FRIEND SLAIN

Los Angeles Police Told Hollywood Girl Murdered By Negro

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Oct. 5.—Bruised and cut about the face, Irene Willard, twenty-six, staggered into a Los Angeles police station early today with a story of having witnessed the slaying of a girl friend and having been attacked and beaten.

She said she was held prisoner for two days in a Central Avenue place, where she was assaulted.

Miss Willard insisted she saw her friend throat slashed by a negro and the body wrapped in sheets. She named the supposed murder victim as Gladys Seeley, twenty-three, Hollywood.

The young woman told police that late yesterday evening the negroes bundled the body of her friend into the rear of an old automobile, forced her into the front seat and started to drive toward the beach.

"I jumped out of the car and escaped," she told officers. "I ran as fast as I could."

Police began checking her story.

TO PAY LESS FOR IMPORTED WINES

Canadian Press
Toronto, Oct. 5.—Ontario consumers of French still wines will eventually pay 20c a gallon less for the product as a result of Canada being placed on the intermediate tariff list under the treaty with France, signed last Saturday by Premier Bennett, according to a statement by E. G. Odette, Ontario liquor commissioner.

London, Oct. 5.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, back in London today after his long holiday in Canada and Newfoundland, was feeling in the best of spirits—but his political future was a prime subject of unofficial speculation.

Even as the head of the national government returned yesterday, his old party, the Laborites, were framing a new platform which calls for aggressive socialistic measures on the advent of the next Labor government; while the Conservatives, his new colleagues, who are in overwhelming majority in Parliament and in the cabinet, were strengthening Tory policies.

The divergence between Labor and the Conservatives was never so great as it is to-day.

ROOSEVELT'S STATEMENTS
The Premier arrived in London from Liverpool with his daughter, Deborah, talking delightedly of his holiday experiences and commenting on President Roosevelt's references to the way Britain had grappled with the depression.

He remarked he had just read a report of President Roosevelt's speech of last Sunday "in which he pointed out it was not by a 'do nothing' policy that this country had made progress out of the depression."

"He is in the position of being able to survey us from afar," Mr. MacDonald added. "As President Roosevelt remarked with accuracy, no intelligent observer can accuse this country of undue orthodoxy in the present emergency. Where orthodoxy has appeared a wise guide, we have been orthodox; where the orthodoxy of the last few generations has appeared to cease to correspond with conditions, we have been unorthodox and have heaved out new lines."

Los Angeles Police Told Hollywood Girl Murdered By Negro

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Oct. 5.—Bruised and cut about the face, Irene Willard, twenty-six, staggered into a Los Angeles police station early today with a story of having witnessed the slaying of a girl friend and having been attacked and beaten.

She said she was held prisoner for two days in a Central Avenue place, where she was assaulted.

Miss Willard insisted she saw her friend throat slashed by a negro and the body wrapped in sheets. She named the supposed murder victim as Gladys Seeley, twenty-three, Hollywood.

The young woman told police that late yesterday evening the negroes bundled the body of her friend into the rear of an old automobile, forced her into the front seat and started to drive toward the beach.

"I jumped out of the car and escaped," she told officers. "I ran as fast as I could."

Police began checking her story.

STOP-AND-GO SIGNALS

IF VICTORIA ATTEMPTED THE ADEquate control of its traffic by putting police constables at every dangerous street intersection, it would have to increase the size of its police force by at least one-third and spend something like $25,000 a year more than it spends on this service now. The intersections on Yates, Government and Fort Streets, Quadra and Hillside, Rockland Avenue, Fernwood and Pandora, Fairfield and Linden, just to mention a few off-hand, at various times have been the scenes of numerous accidents involving motor cars and pedestrians, and the traffic on them should be vigilantly and effectively controlled over a considerable part of the day.

Since human safety is the most important requirement of the public welfare, the city is morally bound to secure it, and we are not sure that it is not legally responsible. An accident involving loss of life at dangerous sections, of which there are many in Victoria, in which it is established that neither driver of colliding motor cars was careless nor reckless, might cost Victoria a formidable sum. Indeed, it ought to. Incidentally, it should be inspiring to recall that the collapse of the Point Ellice Bridge—to the adequate repair of which many taxpayers insanely objected—cost the city hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Victoria should at once adopt the stop-and-go system of automatic signals at every dangerous intersection. The cost would be negligible in contrast with the additional sum which, as surely as the sun shines, will be required to enable our police force to protect the public life and property, and at the same time control a traffic which, in spite of all obstructions and obstacles to the contrary, is bound to grow rapidly with the years. It is no disparagement to the vigilance and faithfulness of our police force to contend that these signals are much more effective in stimulating the habit of caution and watchfulness on the part of motorists and pedestrians, the latter of whom need it as much as the drivers of cars. This has been the experience of every large community on the American continent, and not excluding even little Port Angeles, Victoria is not yet omniscient.

The initial cost of these signals to Victoria would probably not exceed $6,500, while their annual maintenance would be relatively small. Compared with the cost of maintaining eight or ten more constables this would be negligible, especially in view of the fact that this city is consecrating itself to the task of doubling or trebling the motor tourist business and is praying to high heaven that next year we shall have more traffic of this kind than we ever have had before. In fact, the whole of Canada is now organized for the encouragement of this travel. As a matter of fact, there ought to be provincial legislation requiring municipalities to adopt these devices. Probably there will be before long.

In Great Britain signals of this character are being established with almost feverish haste and intensity, in consequence of the development of motor car traffic and the growing number of accidents, which recently was the subject of prolonged debate in Parliament. The Home Secretary has instituted Safety Leagues throughout the whole kingdom in the realization that the halcyon days of the cow-trail and the picturesque lanes dedicated to pedestrians exclusively have disappeared. Within a short time the familiar spectacle of a majestic police constable with white gloves regulating traffic in London will have disappeared. As for Victoria, it is confronted with the necessity of either adopting these automatic devices, at small cost, or appointing ten or twelve more constables, or risking damage actions which would cost more than both other alternatives combined.

THE SAILOR SPEAKS

ADMIRAL OF THE FLEET SIR ROGER
 Keyes stated in New York the other day that he thought the London Naval Treaty would be dropped, that Britain would take the stand "that a nation should be allowed to have all the ships necessary for the guarding of its trade routes and protection of its coastline."

It must be said for Sir Roger that he is consistent. When he carried the Conservative colors in a by-election in North Portsmouth last February he promised the electors that he would work tooth and nail for the scrapping of the treaty.

It would hardly be expected that voters in one of Britain's naval strongholds would turn down such an ardent advocate of a bigger navy as this gallant sailor. Strange to say, however, Sir Roger's majority was 9,000 less than that of the former Conservative member whose place he now occupies in the House of Commons. North Portsmouth obviously had its own ideas about spending large sums of money on battleships—when the majority of expert opinion is that if there shall be another war, most of the damage will be done from the air.

Sir Roger Keyes is a professional sailor. To him the great battleship naturally is a thing of beauty and a joy for ever. But the plain man on the street will want to know how he is to continue to foot the bills for the replenishment of fighting equipment while his livelihood, the expansion of international business, is being jeopardized by war talk.

Incidentally, of course, the question may be asked by British taxpayers how it is that a newcomer to the House of Commons, bent on a bigger navy, has the right to predict the attitude his country will take at next year's momentous naval meeting.

BUSINESS FOR PEACE

WHILE IT APPEARS THAT SOME IN
 Canada think this country can serve no useful purpose by remaining a member of the League of Nations, it is refreshing to know that the business men of the Dominion, as represented by the membership of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, realize that international peace is the only safeguard for the taxpayers' daily bread. The following resolution was passed at the recent convention of the body in question:

That while this Chamber believes that the people of Canada desire that the Dominion continue its support of the League of Nations by retaining its membership therein and assisting in the solution of the many problems claiming the League's attention, the question of international security calls for particular study by business men at this time. This convention urges its member organizations to support the League of Nations Society in Canada in the development of public opinion favorable to the collective system of security and the renunciation of war as a means of national policy, a principle to which Canada is committed under the covenant of the League of Nations and the Briand-Kellogg pact.

The Winnipeg Free Press hits the nail on the head when it says that Canada's special interest in keeping the peace of the world is very evident. The last war still loads down the Canadian budget with debt and pension charges, and fear of the next war is one reason why markets have been closed to basic Canadian products. Long-term prosperity for Canada depends largely on the acceptance of internationalist ideas, of which the League of Nations is the chief organ and exponent. It is heartening and significant that the Dominion's leaders of business recognized this fact so plainly as they did in the quoted resolution.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S INDUSTRIES

BRITISH COLUMBIA RANKS THIRD IN manufacturing production among the provinces of Canada. In gross value of output this province is exceeded only by Ontario and Quebec. Industries based on forest wealth form the principal branch of British Columbia manufactures, and fish curing and packing is the fourth largest industry in the province. Water power is abundant and supplies over two-thirds of the motive power employed in manufacturing.

The concentration of manufactures has been carried to a high degree, Vancouver alone reporting more than a third of the manufacturing value of the province. The gross value of the manufacturing products of British Columbia in 1932 was $140,538,000. Capital invested in manufactures in the province in that year totaled $362,879,000; employees numbered 29,488 and wages and salaries paid amounted to $32,210,000. Of the gross value of output $54,532,000 was reported from the city of Vancouver. The other two largest concentrations of manufactures were in New Westminster and Victoria, the output in the former being valued at $7,465,000, and in the latter at $5,585,000. Of the capital investment for the province, lands, buildings, machinery and equipment accounted for $272,688,000; stocks in process, materials and supplies for $22,625,000; inventory value of finished products $25,833,000; working capital $41,712,000.

Of the total gross value of production in our own province in 1932 the group based on forest resources reported $41,631,000 or nearly thirty per cent. To this group belonged the two leading industries in the province, saw mills and pulp and paper. The gross value of the products of the former was $17,729,000 and of the latter $11,056,000. Third place in gross value was held by central electric stations at $10,082,000 and fourth by fish curing and packing at $9,085,000. British Columbia leads all the provinces in her sea fisheries, and the canned salmon of the Pacific Coast is the most important fish export of the Dominion. The vegetable products of agriculture supply the second largest group of manufactures in British Columbia with animal products third, while the mining industry of the province is the basis of the fourth largest group of manufactures. Trail, a mining centre, ranks next after Victoria in industrial output.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

NOT FAR AWAY
 The Recorder and Times

The people of Toronto will find it hard to believe The Halifax Chronicle when that newspaper says that "the Ontario Parliament buildings are an ugly pile of modern Victorian vintages with little or nothing to warrant the interest of the passing visitor." And yet the Halifax newspaper is not very far astray in its estimate.

SCANDAL SHEETS
 Le Droit, Ottawa

We approach this subject with distaste. Little papers which make money out of what humanity has that is least worthy, have recently attained an astonishing circulation. They are published in Toronto, the city of the pure, and they exploit what our provincial capital tries to hide with the greatest care. If these papers were content to criticize public men, that might pass, although even so, they might learn something of moderation of language. But as they stand at present, they are vulgar blackmail sheets. They probe into private life, reveal scandals, give the world the example of vile manners and morals.

RETREAT FROM THE CARIBBEAN
 The Baltimore Sun

It cannot be said that the withdrawal of the last contingent of American marines from Haiti marks a turning point in our Caribbean policy. The turning point came when the Hoover administration decided to retreat from the extreme position previous governments had taken with respect to the international police power and when the Roosevelt administration undertook to carry forward and expand the Hoover practice into the doctrine of the "good neighbor." The first of those two decisions reversed the policy of interference which had been traditional with us since the days of Theodore Roosevelt. The second gave the reversal permanent effect. The evacuation of Haitian territory is but the fruition of those earlier undertakings.

A THOUGHT

For what glory is it, if, when ye be buffeted for your faults, ye shall take it patiently? If, when ye do well, and suffer for it, ye take it patiently, this is acceptable with God.—I Peter II 20.

Loose Ends

Concerning the kissing of bakers' horses—and the comic significance thereof—the mob violence of quiet men—the passing of the financial buck—and the responsibility for things as they are

By H. B. W.

OSCULATION

THE MOST important photograph
 published by this paper for years appeared the other night. It showed the Deputy Attorney-General of British Columbia, Mr. Oscar Bass, K.C., standing on the street in front of his home kissing or being kissed (I'm not sure which, perhaps both) by a baker's horse. This, we are assured, is the regular morning habit of the chief official enforcing the law in British Columbia. Moreover, it is learned on high authority that several other horses, lured by daily jumps of sugar and apples, are in the habit of osculating the Deputy Attorney-General of this Province. Finally, there is Buster, the retired baker's horse, whom Mr. Bass has provided with a home and an old-age pension up at Shawnigan Lake just because Buster, in his working days, used to come by in the morning and beg for sugar lumps.

The natural good-heartedness apparent in these relations is interesting enough in a hard world, but there is a further comic and historical interest. I mean to say, one feels some sense of real security and peace and personal freedom in a country where the chief official is enforcing the law can be pictured in a newspaper kissing or being kissed on the streets by a baker's horse. It shows you that democracy and the fine old British sense of proportion have not perished here as in other places.

Can you imagine such a thing happening, for example, in Germany or Japan? An important official enforcing the law there would instantly lose his authority and prestige if he were pictured in such an informal and jolly hobby as horse kissing. But here, where we have a sane perspective and know what things are really important, such a picture only adds respect for the law. We realize that the law is a human thing made for us all, enforced by men who feed sugar to bakers' horses.

And there is a fine sense of equality, of rough-and-ready democracy which defies revolutions either to the right or left, in a country where you may find a man kissing the baker's horse every morning before he goes to the Parliament Buildings to enforce the law; a country, moreover, where all this is taken by the public as a matter of course and pictures of it printed in the newspapers.

Let all the world know that here in our island civilization we have achieved an honest simplicity of life, a real equality known before only in the best days of the Roman Republic. No chances for a revolution here.

MOBS

YET, IN SPITE OF these reassuring
 signs, I find, on reading a highly scientific article on public philosophy that the germs of violence lurk in us all. At the University of Iowa, it seems, they have been conducting tests to discover the probable behaviour of the average man in a mob, for mobs have lynched 5,000 people in the United States, many of them innocent of any crime, since 1882, besides engaging in riot and destruction of property.

The results of the scientific tests are rather depressing. Of course, you imagine that you would never have anything to do with a mob. You wouldn't take part in any form of public violence. Alas, the tests are enough to shake your confidence in your own sanity. They show that out of 200 ordinary quiet, law-abiding people, 120 will rush out and join any mob that happens to pass. If it is a lynching, sixty-four persons will take an active part in it. (Turn to Page 5, Col. 5)

A PATHETIC APPEAL

To the Editor:—I am a young man, twenty-three years of age, out of work, on relief, having suffered from infantile paralysis when I was six months of age. This left me with a permanent limp, and while my mental ability is in no way impaired, anyone I have approached in looking for work has just looked at me and said: "I'm sorry, you won't do." I have actually become afraid to approach anyone for fear of being turned down.

I am, therefore, taking the liberty of using your columns to find out if there is anyone who will give me a job I can do, at least give me a trial. I am in sore need of a set of false teeth, lack of these being also a handicap, and I have been without them for four years.

Thanking you in advance for your kindness. "HOPEFUL."

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
 October 5, 1909
 (From The Times Files)

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the C.P.R., before returning east, his recent visit here, promised Simon Leiser, chairman of the Victoria Board of Trade, that if the local financial parties would outline the plans for a new opera house for Victoria and submit them to him, he would see that the C.P.R. give the proposition liberal financial support.

R. Marpole, general executive assistant of the C.P.R. on this coast, who was in Victoria last evening, left for Vancouver on the midnight steamer. He will probably at once to Calgary to meet the members of the firm of Chancel, MacDonald and Timothy of that city, who are the latest contestants for the Albert and the E. and N. Railway extension.

Victoria West will have Dufty of Ladysmith and Thackeray of Ladysmith in their ranks, and the forward line will probably be Okell, Bailey, Cowper and Kinloch, for the first game. The centre-forward is not yet selected, and until Sedger's return from the woods, a substitute for his place will have to be located. They will meet the J.R.A.A. to-morrow at the Royal Athletic Park.

Dr. Herman A. Robertson has acquired a fine piece of property on the east side of Quadra Street, between Port and Mearns, the transaction having just been closed by a local real estate firm.

Another disaster has overtaken the mines at Extension near Nanaimo, when the extensive workings of the Wellington Colliery Company are situated. Twenty men are entombed, with the chances for their rescue very slight indeed. The catastrophe is due to an explosion which took place early this morning and which has thrown the trinity of mining towns of the local district—Ladysmith, Extension and Nanaimo—into a ferment of excitement.

The laying of the cornerstone of the new Moss Street public school took place yesterday afternoon before a large party of prominent citizens.

In preparation for this year's historic pageant at Ludlow, Shropshire, England, Mrs. Arnel O'Connor, sister of Major Bullock-Wobster, has published "Romantic Ludlow," a tiny blue-bound volume, through which one is given, as through a wide-angle lens, a charming view of the colorful countryside, which has served as the setting for great events through the years. Mrs. O'Connor has brought to her hands the love of beauty and truth, and the deep spiritual insight which characterizes all her work. Her knowledge of Shropshire is intimate and full of appreciation and understanding; the entry of characters and events into the picture is clear, beautiful and refreshing, and at her hands Ludlow stands forth rejuvenated and clothed in the glory of its historic past.

ARE MARRIED AT ST. MARK'S

Miss Helen G. Cross Becomes Bride of Charles Lewis

Ceremony Wednesday Evening Followed By Big Reception at Home

St. Mark's Church, Boleskine Road, was beautifully decorated by girl-friends of the bride with pink and white asters and Michaelmas daisies, with white tulle bows centred with pink chrysanthemums to mark the guest pews, for the ceremony on Wednesday evening, which united in marriage Helen Georgina, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Cross, Maple Street, to Charles, youngest son of Mrs. R. Lewis and the late Mr. Lewis, Graham Street.

IN WHITE SATIN
The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Bert Cross, and was a charming picture in her floor-length gown of white satin with its sleeves puffed to the elbows and finished in a long tight-fitting cuff, fastened with brilliant buttons at the wrist. The skirt was form-fitting to the hips, then flared gracefully below the knees. Her veil of silk-embroidered net was attached to a cap of lace beneath a circlet of orange blossoms, including a spray worn by her mother on her briday. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and white carnations.

Miss Eva Cross, sister of the bride, was her only bridesmaid, dressed in a ruffled skirt and shoulder cape, finished with a pink silk sash. With it she wore a becoming hat of pink, pale blue mits and pink sandals, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and chrysanthemums, tied with a wide pale blue ribbon.

Mr. Ernest Tibbitt supported the groom. During the signing of the register Miss Kathleen Clarke very beautifully sang "Because." The ushers were Mr. Wm. McKinlay and Mr. Jack Clarke.

RECEPTION AT HOME
After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the young couple receiving their many guests before the fireplace, which was decorated with large yellow daisies and blue Michaelmas daisies. They were assisted by the bride's mother, smartly gowned in apple green crepe, and a bluish silver and blue corsage bouquet of pink roses, and by the bridegroom's mother, who chose crepe with cut velvet sleeves and a hat of black, and wore a corsage bouquet of pink carnations.

The buffet supper was served from a table centred with pale pink tulle and sweetheart roses and asparagus fern, the bride cutting the three-tier wedding cake to the accompaniment of the customary toasts.

The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, including a silver tea service from the Hudson's Bay staff, where the bride was formerly employed, while the bridegroom's associates at the Fairbanks-Morse Co. gave them an electric waffle iron and toaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis left on the midnight boat for a honeymoon on the mainland, the bride traveling in a smart brown coat with large collar of wolf, with hat and accessories in the same tones. They will later make their home in Victoria.

Sir Frank Carter of Woolgrave-on-Thames after spending a day at the Empress Hotel left last night for Vancouver on his homeward trip. He is accompanied by William Tasker, his secretary.

WEDDINGS

THOMPSON-FRASER
Port Alberni, Oct. 5.—A very pretty wedding and also one of great interest to the people of Vancouver took place at St. Andrew's Cathedral, Ucluelet, when Patricia Binns, second daughter of Mrs. W. B. Fraser of Ucluelet, became the bride of Mr. C. Thompson, only son of Mrs. W. Thompson of Ucluelet. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Leighton, Tofino.

Thompson, sister of the groom, in a pastel blue dress, and Miss Irene Fraser, sister of the bride, in a gown of pastel pink, both carrying bouquets of gladioli, attended the bride. Miss Margaret Fraser, sister of the bride, in a gown of pastel pink, and Miss E. Thompson, sister of the groom, in a dress of pale green, Mr. L. Lee supported the groom.

The reception was held in the community hall, the large room being decorated with autumn flowers in harmony with the colors on the bride's table, which was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Assisting in receiving the guests were Mr. W. B. Fraser, the bride's mother, in a gown of figured silk, and Mrs. W. Thompson, mother of the groom, in brown crepe-de-chine. Miss E. Thompson, sister of the groom, and Miss E. Thompson, sister of the groom, played the wedding march as the bridal party entered the hall.

There were about eighty guests present, those from out-of-town including Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Fraser, the groom's parents, and Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Duncan from Port Alberni and Alberni; Mr. Ross Meyers from Benfield; Mr. and Mrs. J. Godden from Tofino; Mr. and Mrs. V. Madden, and Miss E. Thompson of Clayquot; and Rev. Mr. Leighton of Tofino.

MANY DANCERS AT LAKE HILL

Inaugurating a weekly winter series of dances, all dances, all attendance records at Lake Hill Community Centre were shattered at the twelfth anniversary dance and frolic on Wednesday evening when over 450 guests danced to the music of Len Acres' orchestra. The crowded floor repeatedly encircled the orchestra, which responded nobly. For the occasion the hall was decorated with a profusion of autumn leaves, flowers and palms, while a note of gaiety was added by the brightly-colored streamers and balloons.

A song and tap dance by that clever little child dancer, Lois Ruse, received much well-merited applause, and Cecil Gray, in Chinese costume, received a big hand for his solos on his cigar-box fiddle. Miss Thea Stewart and partner in a wonderful adagio, the crowd being loath to allow them to leave the floor.

TAG DAY FOR SOLARIUM

Women's Institute Making Its Annual Appeal To-morrow For Children

For the laudable purpose of providing those extra supplies of woollies and blankets which are so essential for little patients whose treatment entails their spending long hours in the open air during the winter months, the Victoria Women's Institute will hold its annual tag day for the Solarium to-morrow.

For years the institute women have made this annual appeal and every cent of the collection will be handed intact to the Queen Alexandra Solarium board, the institute defraying the small expenses incurred in the way of tags and other incidentals. Headquarters for the collection will be at the W.I. rooms, 635 Fort Street, and the members will provide refreshments for the taggers.

Mrs. Wm. Feder is again acting as convener of the tag day. It is hoped that the public will respond with its customary generosity to this appeal on behalf of the handicapped little children; no amount will be too small and none too large to be welcome.

W.C.T.U. Temperance Contest Announced

At a recent meeting of Rockland Park W.C.T.U., interesting reports of the provincial convention, held at Westminister, were given by the delegates, Mrs. F. W. Laing and Mrs. J. P. Hicks. Reference was made to the success of the Sunday School Scientific Temperance Instruction, held last year, and it is hoped that Sunday schools throughout the city and district will take up the study again this year. The first lesson commences on Sunday, October 7, and will be found in the Sunday school papers.

A shield will be presented, as usual, this year to the school with the largest percentage of its pupils writing the examinations—one shield for large schools and one for small schools. Any school winning a shield three years (not necessarily consecutive years) to retain it. For information phone Mrs. J. P. Hicks, G 5497. Last year Metropolitan United Church school won the large shield, and a school at Summerland the shield for smaller schools.

J. P. McEvoy, writer, who did the script for "The Pursuit of Happiness," starring Francis Lederer, has written tombstone epitaphs and toasts can labels.

THAT'S RIDICULOUS!
HOW CAN A SOAP BE SAFE IF IT SOAKS OUT DIRT FROM CLOTHES IN 15 MINUTES?

I'LL PROVE IT!
IT'S ABSOLUTELY SAFE—AND IT GETS CLOTHES SNOWY WHITE WITHOUT SCRUBBING OR BOILING!

Controversy always follows the introduction of any new scientific discovery. But no discovery in years, probably, has caused so much heated discussion and had such far-reaching effects as this one. Pictures show a typical discussion between two housewives.

Radical new fast-washing, white-washing soap discovery comes as a shock to housewives who have had disastrous experiences with old-type fast-washing soaps. How they are amazed to find that this new soap not only does in 15 minutes' soaking what other soaps take hours of scrubbing and boiling to do, but also works with utter safety to colors, fabrics, hnds. And—gets clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter without one bit of washboard wear and tear.

IT'S true! Here's a NEW and UTTERLY SAFE fast-washing, white-washing laundry soap! A soap that not only ends the back-breaking drudgery of scrubbing and boiling clothes, but also banishes forever the fear of fade and "soap-eat" in modern fast-washing methods. Called OXYDOL, this new $1,000,000 discovery is the latest achievement of the famous Procter & Gamble experts. And is backed by their reputation as the makers of the mildest and safest soap!

Before offering new and improved OXYDOL for sale, experts conducted exhaustive tests for safety. Even sheets cotton prints and children's dainty frocks, when washed, time and time again, came out brilliant, fresh and new! Little wonder, then, women everywhere are quitting bars, flakes, chips and old-type granulated soaps for this rubbers, scrubbies, yet utterly safe way to get clothes snowy white.

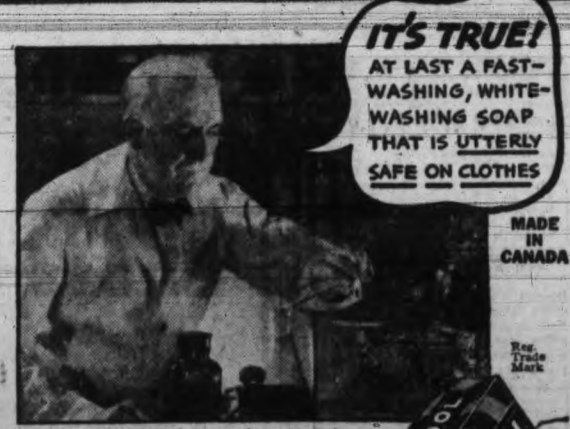

Soaks Out Dirt in 15 Minutes!
Developed at the cost of one million dollars, OXYDOL does these three things that other soaps cannot do: Loosens dirt out in 15 minutes' soaking, without scrubbing or boiling.

Thus cuts washing time 25 to 40% in tub or machine. Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter than other soaps, by accurate Tintometer tests. Whiter in one washing even, than other soaps can do in 2 to 4 washings!

Works by a mild, gentle washing action that can't fade colors or injure fabrics. And kind to your hands; ordinary laundry soaps can never be!

Different In Action
OXYDOL foams up instantly and completely—even in the hardest water. It goes to work on grease, dirt, stains, 2 to 3 times faster than suds from less modern soaps. Yet due to its special formula—its special protective combination of mild soap ingredients—OXYDOL can't hurt hands, fabrics, or colors. Thus it gives the whiter washings—in the fastest time—and with the utmost safety!

Why go on risking precious clothes to harsh fast-working soaps? Or wearing yourself out scrubbing and boiling with old-fashioned bars, chips, or flakes? Save time, save money, save clothes with OXYDOL. Buy a package of OXYDOL from your grocer today. Say goodbye to boiling, scrubbing.

Oxydol is the result of some 4 years of experimentation by the famous Procter & Gamble research experts.

TESTS SHOW HOW OXYDOL GETS CLOTHES CLEAN WITHOUT USUAL "HARSH" EFFECT

PROBLEMS OF TEEN AGE

Parents of teen age children are called upon to-day to face problems involving the moral and physical well being of their children such as were undreamed of a generation ago. These problems are the result of a changing society. How are they to be met?

Many parents are not clear in their own minds what habits and behavior of the teen age child are physically and morally deteriorating and what are merely the result of changing standards as well as members of the club, and the committee greatly hope that this will be the case this year. In order to assist exhibitors as well as members, the society will undertake to unpack and repack pictures delivered, freight paid, to Belmont House. They should be addressed to the secretary of the society, Miss C. L. Alexander.

SPEEDING SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLDS
But all mothers agree that some things are uniformly undesirable. For young boys of fifteen and sixteen to take the family car or their own "on dates," causes any mother worried, helpless concern. She can't close an eye until her daughter is safely back in bed, knowing as she does the reckless, indifferent—to consequences way in which the average boy of this age drives.

However faithfully he may promise not to indulge in it, smartly, show-off, fast driving is a complex which definitely stamps a boy as adolescent. Such a boy is never safe. It is doubly dangerous when front and back seats are jammed with gay, chattering passengers whose conversation offers just the dangerous distraction from driving which makes swift, clear thinking impossible in emergencies.

SNAPPY—BUT SLOWER
Some day some smart manufacturer will design cars for young drivers. Bright-colored, snappy, low-priced cars, preferably holding four passengers (for what boy can date a girl without a supporting companion dating him?), and possessed of an accelerator which no chance pressure can drive faster than forty-five miles an hour—so long as we have seventy-mile-an-hour cars we will have seventy-mile-an-hour drivers.

Late hours are another maternal bugaboo. Having accepted the fact that parties do start later, we are being called on to accept the general habit of late hours such customs encourage. A trip to the movies can consume all of an evening and part of the morning hours.

EXAMPLE MUST BE SET
There is always the alibi that the bedtime is slow at the sandwich shop and, "Everyone else was just as late, mother."

The answer is a concerted campaign on the part of the mothers of young daughters to foster better habits. Socially superior mothers can enforce the dictum with their daughters and the lesser sheep will follow along behind. The boys accept the hours set by the girls.

It remains for mothers to respect their own convictions that such habits are physically, and may be morally, injurious, and then live up to those convictions.

BEAUTY SHOP TO PAY $25,000

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Oct. 5.—Superior Judge Frank M. Smith to-day awarded $25,000 damages to Miss June Fawcett for injuries to her face caused by a Hollywood beauty shop "rejuvenation" treatment.

A month ago Miss Fawcett was granted $15,000 damages against the shop, operated by Louise Zolman, Dr. Arthur E. Smith, plastic surgeon, however, later found it would require twelve skin operations to restore her face, and an appeal was made for a new trial, which resulted in the larger judgment.

Miss Fawcett sued originally for $100,000.

Oakland, Calif. Oct. 5.—A baby born ten minutes after the death of her mother, Mrs. Ellen Lewis, thirty-five of Oakland, to-day gave promise of living a normal life span. The unusual birth occurred last Sunday, but only became known to-day. Had Mrs. Lewis lived the baby would have been born in about three weeks' time.

The woman was stricken with a severe headache last Sunday, and Dr. Robert J. Melvor ordered her at once to a hospital. In the hospital, Dr. Melvor began his examination. Before he had finished his diagnosis Mrs. Lewis died and an autopsy disclosed a brain hemorrhage as the cause. For four frantic minutes Dr. Melvor struggled to revive the woman. Then he called for surgical instruments.

The doctor worked quickly, and performed a post mortem Caesarian operation. Six minutes after he began he held an apparently dead seven-pound thirteen-ounce baby in his hands. After twenty minutes of artificial respiration the little girl began breathing normally, and hospital attendants said to-day that she was doing well.

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake Up Your Liver Bile and Get A New Lease of Life. No Calomel Is Necessary.

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of liquid into your blood, every day of your life. Without that bile, trouble starts promptly. Your food just won't digest the way it should and your bowels are sluggish. Food poisons inside you and your entire system is undermined by this poisonous waste matter. You have indigestion—the discomfort of gas, bloating, heartburn and sourness. You are prey to headache, bare a tongue like cotton-wool, a nasty taste in your mouth, and breath and ugly skin. You haven't anything like the pep a healthy person should have. In fact you are generally wretched.

How can you expect to clear up a condition like this completely by taking more laxatives like salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? They can't wake up your liver bile!

Avoid calomel (mercury). Buy yourself a box of old reliable Carter's Little Liver Pills. Ask your druggist, or ask, They'll wake up your liver without punishing you. Bring back the glad-to-be-alive feeling, once more.

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name and get them. Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. See at all druggists.

BRANCH WORK IS VALUABLE

Occupational Therapy and Outpatients' Departments in Hospitals Described

An insight into branch activities of British Columbia hospitals was presented in papers given at yesterday afternoon's session of the Provincial Hospitals Association convention at the Empress Hotel. Occupational therapy, the work of outpatients' departments and women's auxiliary doings were outlined. Other business of the afternoon included an address by Dr. Harvey Agnew, secretary of the Canadian Hospital, and a discussion on the Privy Council decision in the McDaniel case in the Vancouver General Hospital.

On behalf of Miss Margaret Rogers, convenor of the special committee of the Junior League, Miss Jean Mudge gave the paper on occupational therapy, an innovation instituted by the Junior League of Vancouver to occupy the time of patients with practical work.

There were now two therapists at the hospital, Miss Mudge stated, who conducted the therapy classes and instructed patients in the various types of work which were undertaken. For patients who were in hospital for fairly long periods more specialized courses in different occupations were taught and in many instances these had proved remunerative to the patients. Their activities were confined to sewing, knitting, weaving, carpentry, woodwork and other fairly simple tasks which divert their minds from abnormal habits.

Tuberculosis patients were given vocational work chiefly, she said, and their activities including typing and stenography.

Patients were allowed to keep one out of every three articles made, the remainder going to the hospital. In this connection she stated they were able to sell their products and there was also a fair demand for stenographic work among the T.B. patients.

Dr. Agnew strongly endorsed this work, stating it had been a boon to patients and made them happier. It had been taken up in several larger Canadian hospitals, he said.

Dr. A. K. Haywood, superintendent of the Vancouver General Hospital, publicly offered the institution's thanks to the Junior League for its efforts in this connection.

OUTPATIENTS' DEPARTMENTS

The activities of the outpatients' departments were sketched by Miss Olive Cotsworth, R.N., of the outpatients' department of the Vancouver General Hospital. These departments, which treated poorer people, were usually established in larger general hospitals and university medical schools.

Patients being treated were interviewed by social workers, who inquired into their social welfare and the circumstances surrounding their family conditions.

Some departments were maintained on a part pay basis, as many patients preferred to give what little they could for the services, while others did not like to have treatment unless they were permitted to give some remuneration for it. The services of medical men in these departments were given free of charge.

Reports of women's auxiliaries were submitted by Mrs. A. C. Wilkes, Vancouver; Mrs. Phetean, Victoria; Mrs.

S. Campbell, Smithers; Mrs. Frank Sehl, Victoria, and E. S. Smithers for the girls' auxiliary of the Royal Columbia Hospital, New Westminster.

The discussion of the Privy Council judgment which reversed the decision of British Columbia courts in the McDaniel case was heard with interest. It was presented by J. H. McVety, Vancouver, who told the circumstances surrounding the case and read a portion of the Privy Council judgment. He had not received a written copy of the judgment, which was handed down last month, but expected to do so shortly.

The facts were that in January, 1932, an infant was admitted to the infectious Diseases Hospital to be treated for diphtheria. The child was Anna-belle McDaniel. After treatment for her illness, which for a time was given on the same floor in the hospital where a number of smallpox cases were housed, the girl was removed to her home. During the incubation period she developed smallpox.

DAMAGE ACTION

Subsequently the father sued the hospital for $5,000 damages for negligence. The case was heard before the Supreme Court, which awarded the father over $500 damages. It was appealed and the decision upheld, with Mr. Justice A. E. McPhillips dissenting.

Because of the principle involved and the wide interest among Canadian hospitals taken in the case, it was sent on to the Privy Council, where the decision was ultimately reversed this year, with the finding that there was no negligence as the hospital utilized technique approved by modern medicine.

Arising out of the discussion of the case, Mr. McVety and Dr. Haywood strongly urged hospital officials to make vaccination compulsory among employees. They gave instances of where children who had not been vaccinated because of parents' objections had succumbed to smallpox where others who had been vaccinated had survived. Dr. Haywood passed around a book of pictures taken at the hospital showing the terrible results from smallpox in cases where vaccination had been refused.

At the luncheon the delegates were guests of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital. C. H. O'Halloran presided and welcomed the gathering.

Dr. Agnew, the speaker, dealt generally with conditions among Canadian hospitals, comparing their plight with that of United States and other institutions.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

CHAPTER I

Crime lifted into police headquarters and then seeped down into the pressroom in the basement with the unfurling regularity of dirty water draining through the waste pipe of a bathtub.

Charles Morden sat at his battered desk and held in his hand a telephone which was directly connected with the Blade.

"I've got another piece snatching for you," he droned. "Elizabeth Givens, forty-two — 3612 Reeder Street — alleged from Thirty-second Avenue car line at Waters Street."

An officer appeared in the doorway and beckoned to Morden. Morden nodded his head, said into the transmitter, "Just a second. Something's up."

Morden hung up the telephone and bounded into the corridor, where the officer passed him a written memo. Morden glanced through the memo and gave a low whistle. He asked one or two questions, jotted down notes, then rushed back to the telephone and picked up the receiver.

There was an interval of silence, then Morden's eyes gleamed with enthusiasm. He slid an appalling palm along the edges of his glossy black hair, making certain that the waves were smoothed into place. His voice took on a tone of bustling invitation.

"Hello, brat. I wondered if you'd give me a tumble. Listen, cuss, I've found a swell new eating place. They put on a good food show. What do you say we toddle over and..."

Abruptly his voice returned to its droning, bored monotone.

"Okay, Edward Shillingby, fifty-three—563 Monadnock Building, at Ninth and Central, unmarried, licensed as a private detective, abet at 10:15 by a gangster on Western Avenue between Cypress and Hazel, with driving a Cadillac coupe, and the left fender dented, drove slowly along the curb. Thomas Decker, forty-eight—1242 Wellington Street, unmarried, was walking along the sidewalk. The car pulled in close to the curb. A lone occupant raised a gun, said, 'All right, you skunk, here's your gun, get yours.' Decker, a panic, started to run. The man called after him, 'Beg your pardon, buddy, I got the wrong guy.'"

"The car got into motion, went on past Decker. He had a good look at it, but couldn't get the license number. The tail light had been shattered or else was dim. But he could see the dent on the left rear fender. It was a grey Cadillac coupe. The driver wore an overcoat and a black slouch hat. They yanked down the street, the car stopped. Shillingby was walking along the sidewalk. The man in the car got out, walked across to Shillingby, stood close to him, and Decker says he seemed to be standing still for two or three seconds. Then the man from the Cadillac turned, jumped into his car and swung around the corner. Decker ran to Shillingby, and was the first to reach the body."

"The dead man was Edward Shillingby. Identification made from letters in his pocket and his private detective's license. There was a typewritten statement in his pocket that if he should be found dead, police were to call Pay Bronson, at Lockhaven 2934, and to question Philip Lampton, sometimes known as 'Cincinnati Red.'"

"Officers called Pay Bronson. She lives at 1924 Arley, apartment 19B, age twenty-three. She said that Shillingby had been working up a case against Lampton. She didn't know what the case was. Shillingby had said he was going out to shadow Lampton. He thought Lampton might grab him and frisk him, so he had his secretary type out this statement. The secretary says the object of the statement was to keep Lampton from bumping Shillingby off."

"That sounds sort of fishy. Shillingby probably had something up his sleeve. He may have intended to talk with Lampton and flash the statement on Lampton. Now here's another funny angle on the case: Decker is in a panic. He made his statement to the police, gave his name and address, promised that he'd be available as a witness. He skipped out. Just a few minutes ago police received a telephone communication from Sydney Griff, the criminologist, stating that Decker had consulted him. He said Decker was afraid Lampton's gang would kill him to keep him from testifying. Griff says he'll produce Decker any time it's necessary to have him as a witness, but in the meantime Decker is going to be very much under cover."

The receiver made squawking noises.

"Sure," Morden said. "I can get a good story out of that John Smith case and make a human interest yarn out of the hitch-hiker who was picked up for a ride and found herself under arrest. She isn't hard on the eyes. She'd make a good picture and is the type that would sit on the edge of a desk and show plenty of leg. Too bad we haven't got time to get a photographer down here in time to make the first edition. But we might shoot her for a good follow-up yarn. Sure, John Smith is a phony, but the officers are going to find out who he is before they turn him loose. Okay, I'll call you back in seven minutes—ten at the latest."

Tom Carsons, of the detective bureau, was killing time until the men from the service station would arrive to make the identification. He looked up as Morden entered the room and nodded. Then he turned back to the tall, somewhat paunchy individual, who sat on a wooden bench, his shoulders slightly hunched, his eyes nervously flicking about the room. On a chair nearby sat a girl with eyes that were dark, wary and watchful.

Morden swept the girl with an appreciative eye, waited until her glance rested upon his face, and smiled.

After a moment she returned the smile.

Tom Carsons looked over at the man and said in a weary voice: "You're talking just the way they all of them talk. If I had a nickel for every guy who claimed he was going to break me for holding him, I wouldn't have to work. You say your address is 732 Maple Avenue. Then, when we prove you don't live there, you say you're John Smith of Riverview, and that you gave us a fake name and address because you didn't want to be involved in a lot of scandal. The girl claims she's a hitch-hiker and hasn't any home; that you picked her up, and..."

"That's right," said Morden. "Shut up," Carsons said. "I'll ask you questions when I want you to talk."

The man wet his lips nervously with the tip of his tongue and shifted his eyes to the girl. The girl fidgeted in her chair, suddenly looked over to Carsons and correctly interpreted the cool humor of his gaze.

"Honest!" she said. "If I knew anything about him I'd tell you the truth. I was just walking and wasn't even giving the drivers a tumble when this fellow pulled his roadster in alongside the curb and asked me if I didn't want a lift. I told him I didn't, and he put the car in low gear and crawled along..."

The telephone rang.

Carsons held the receiver to his ear, nodded his head and then looked across at the man on the bench.

"Now," he said, "we're getting somewhere."

He spoke into the transmitter, "That's all the dope you've got."

He nodded, slipped the receiver back into place, wrote rapidly on a sheet of paper, then looked up at the man.

"All right, Mr. Frank B. Cathay, suppose you tell us the truth?"

The man on the bench did not wince. His eyes shifted slightly, as though concentrating in swift thought.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

DIFFERENT DISHES

By MARY E. DAGUE

A crusade I'd like to lead is one to get housewives into the habit of darning to try new recipes and new food materials, too. The only reason we are not known as the best cooks in the world is that we do not make complete use of the superb natural resources we have. The best raw food products on earth are found right here. When foreign chefs come to visit, they almost go out of their senses with ecstasy over our markets which offer the best of everything land besides native foods unknown elsewhere.

The trouble with the average feminine cook is that she allows her family to get into "ruts." Certain dishes become pets and are served over and over again, done the same way. I should like to see every one of us take pride in the number of different ways we can prepare even the most ordinary foods.

CHICKEN POT PIE

And apropos of that, I want to insert just here a recipe for chicken pot pie that will do things you never dreamed could be done to that old favorite chicken.

Chicken pot pie requires: 2½ tablespoons salt-cooking tapiooca, 1½ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, dash of paprika, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 2 cups cooked chicken cut in pieces, 1½ cups milk or chicken stock, 8 to 9 un-baked baking powder biscuits, 1½-inch thick.

Combine ingredients in order given. Turn into greased casserole and bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 25 minutes, stirring mixture twice during first 10 minutes of baking. Place biscuits on top of chicken mixture after it has baked 10 minutes, return to oven, and bake 12 to 15 minutes longer or until biscuits are browned. Serves 4.

Deep-fat frying and broiling are two cooking methods often slighted in the home. Yet both these methods are simple and develop food flavors that are distinctive and popular.

FRENCH FRIED FOODS

Fritters, croquettes, French fried vegetables and such economical dishes as fish cutlets are appetizing for late summer menus and are possible only with deep-fat frying. This method of cooking is a short-process, too.

All families are obliging and interested in something new. If the novelty does not prove popular you do not have to repeat it.

UNIQUE CEREMONY TAKES PLACE FAR ABOVE THE CLOUDS

The opening of the highest and most modern hut in the Alps was marked recently when an expedition of 300 climbers and a detachment of Chasseurs Alpins attended a religious ceremony at Tele Rousse, the new recognized route to the top of Mont Blanc. Forty members of the French Alpine Club slept for the first time in this new refuge, having climbed for nearly three hours through a blizzard. The above picture shows the religious ceremony at the new hut above the clouds.

GRID SQUADS OPEN SEASON

All Teams in Eastern Canada Leagues Will Swing Into Action To-morrow

Half a go into the football ring to-morrow as the east's dozen senior machines roll up to the starting line on even terms and start the heavy cannonading. For once, even the more interested observers in interprovincial, intercollegiate and Ontario union affairs hesitated to issue forecasts on how the initial round of fire would result.

This promised to be one football opening day where few top-heavy favorites were already established. Sarnia Imperials held a definite edge in the O.R.F.U. They have dominated for three seasons and perhaps Ottawa Roughriders inspired more fear than any other Big-Four squad and Queen's more popular support than any college outfit.

To-morrow's games follow:

INTERPROVINCIAL:
Toronto Argonauts at Montreal.
Hamilton Tigers at Ottawa.

INTERCOLLEGIATE:
McGill at Toronto.
Western at Queen's.

O.R.F.U.:
St. Michael's College at Hamilton.
Toronto Balmy Beach at Sarnia.

Hooley Smith Signs Maroons' Contract

Montreal, Oct. 5.—Captain Hooley Smith yesterday affixed his signature to a renewed contract with Montreal Maroons, in the National Hockey League, setting at rest rumors they might be a holdout, and bringing to five the number of players who have either signed or come to terms with the club.

where the government plan does not aid the voluntary hospitals.

The United States hospitals were difficulties prevalent in Great Britain, facing the most crucial crisis in history, he continued, receiving no aid from the state. "They look very enviously at us in this country," he added, "where all our hospitals receive provincial and municipal assistance."

The first problem of Canadian institutions was financing. Despite the most drastic salary reductions, however, employees were carrying on as loyally as they had done before. Few hospitals were closed and others were trying to keep open despite difficulties. He was impressed with the community view taken by hospital trustees.

The changing demand for creation of cheap semi-private accommodation was increasing, he said, an experience which had emphasized the necessity for evolving in the future a building which could undergo conversion.

Low bed occupancy was another problem. Canadian hospitals with training schools last year had an average of 58 per cent occupancy, and those without training schools an average of 50 per cent.

WANT WOMEN IN DIPLOMACY

Feminists in Britain Work For New Goal: French Women Indifferent

Associated Press
London.—Feminism, in England, has shoved the ball across the goal line.

The campaign for women's rights is a movement which has achieved most of its objectives. So feminism, as an issue stirring a crusading zeal in women, is petering out.

A mop-up squad of alert women is still active ironing out some slight inequalities. An effort is being made to win for women the right to enter Great Britain's diplomatic service, and feminists foresee the day when England will send its women to foreign lands to serve His Majesty's Government. On another front women are campaigning for abolition of the present law under which English women who marry foreigners lose their British nationality.

Women may, and do, sit in the House of Commons. One woman has served in the cabinet. The House of Lords still sticks to the ancient tradition of being a man's institution.

By excluding these pupils Mrs. MacLachlan claimed the board was encouraging juvenile crime. She did not think it just when the board had not made provision for a pupil who did not start school until seven or eight years of age.

CANADIAN NATIONAL

SAFETY
SERVICE

The C.N.R. renders many essential services . . . constantly and efficiently.

The aspect of railway operation with which the general public is most familiar is, perhaps, that of passenger transportation, and undoubtedly facilities for speedy, safe and comfortable transportation, such as is provided by the Canadian railways, are of prime importance to the whole community. There are, however, other and equally important services rendered by railways — and by them alone. All these services blend into one complete whole, and the support which members of the public give through using the particular service or services they require, determines the extent to which the whole usefulness of a railway system can be placed at their disposal.

One service which at this time of the year invites public attention is that of carrying grain. Without adequate railway transportation the whole country would be placed under a serious handicap and millions upon millions of dollars of new wealth would be lost, for crops which could not be brought to market or to the seaboard would be of little value. This service is, of course, a seasonal one, lasting only through some months, but to perform it, tracks, engines and cars must be maintained all the year round, and on such a basis that even large crop harvests may be adequately handled. When the crop is small, the railway suffers through having less to carry — but the same necessity for it being there to provide transportation remains.

This is only one of the services which railways perform and which go directly to enriching the country and providing employment. In 1933 the C.N.R. carried over thirty-one million tons of freight. Some idea of the importance of this freight to the workers of Canada can be obtained from a glance at its nature. Over ten million tons consisted of coal and mine products . . . over three and a half million tons of forest products . . . almost a million tons of animals and animal products . . . almost a million tons of gasoline . . . and over five million tons of wheat and farm products.

In every department of service rendered by the C.N.R. there is a whole-hearted desire and effort to provide the best possible. That spirit permeates the entire system and the public can confidently use the C.N.R. feeling that complete satisfaction will be obtained.

IT IS OYSTER TIME AGAIN ALONG THE WATERFRONTS

By PAUL HARRISON
New York, Oct. 5. — Here it is getting along toward the second month, and the newspapers have not said anything about oysters. There is quite a lot to say about them, too, because they are fine and plentiful this season, and apparently happy about it.

WHERE OYSTERS ARE OPENED

Prohibition almost did for the oyster business; cut consumption something like 75 per cent. But a stroll along South Street, where the fish markets and oyster houses are, reveals a real boom in the shell-fish game.

Most of the wholesale concerns have moved into the big markets, but there still are two oyster boats—barges, really—moored side by side under the Manhattan Bridge at the end of Pike Street. Although they float, they do not get about much. The actual fishing is done by saltier craft which tie up at one end of these depots. Trucks back up to the other ends and take away the opened bivalves.

Each barge holds a two-story building. They have porches and pilasters and window shades, and are painted as gaudily as showboats. The oldest belongs to George M. Sullivan, who is about seventy, and whose father and grandfather before him were oystermen. There is always a roar of ice-grinding machines and a rush on activity about the place. Men in rubber coats and aprons stand at benches armed with small hammers and anvils and cracked knives. They work by cracking shells, splitting them open and scooping out the oysters—all practically in a single motion. It is a speedy task because the markets will not hire men who cannot open at least 6,000 in an eight-hour day. Incidentally, there are about 10,000 men—very few women—in New York who work as oysters. Each of them is a specialist in one of three schools. There is straight-knife opening, which is slow, difficult and dangerous, but necessary for fancy oysters-on-the-half-shell. Side-knife is a different approach which may mar the oyster a little. The speed record is 100 in 2½ minutes. The hammer-knife method is fastest for bulk production, but it leaves particles of shell which have to be removed. Oysters themselves do not care much which technique is used.

THE WAR WAS BAD

There are a lot of oyster and clam houses on South Street, but the most famous are the street stands, such as the one near Janet Park, conducted by old Pat O'Connor. He used to open shells for Teddy Roosevelt, and now has a regular clientele of Wall Streeters, who lounge elbow-to-elbow with seamen and dock workers. William Flanagan and Dave Everett run other stands farther south, and are fond of reminding customers that the original John Jacob Astor began his career with a stand near the Battery.

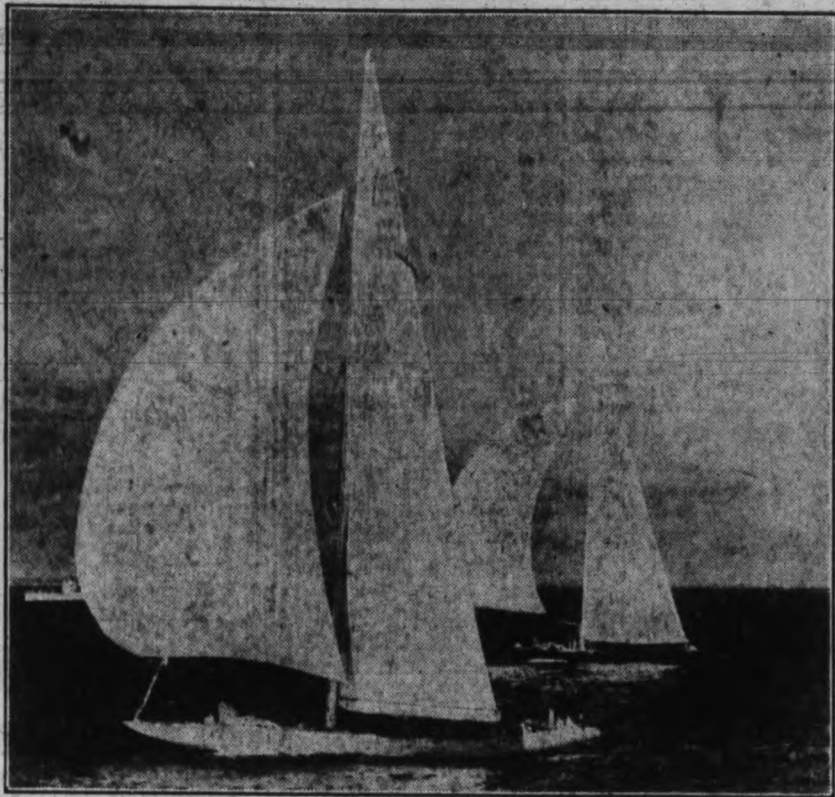

The period of the World War was a sad chapter in the oyster business, and you cannot convince oystermen that the war did not have something to do with it. Strange maladies began to affect the oyster beds, and waterfront people believe they were brought on by munitions chemicals. Anyway, they point out triumphantly, the oysters recovered right after the Treaty of Versailles and have been OK ever since.

OYSTERS TRAVEL TOO

Incidentally, a green oyster is not necessarily a bad one. They are considered quite a delicacy in France. Hereabout, the choicest ones are Cotuit, grown in Cotuit Bay on Cape Cod. Conditions are just right, somewhat, to provide certain nutritive elements, and real connoisseurs declare they can tell a Cotuit from a Blue-point even by taste. The catch is so small, however, that only a few of the highest-priced places offer them to diners.

Oysters get around a lot more than you would guess. Cotuit, for instance, have to be taken to other waters to spawn, and later the youngsters are returned to the Cotuit beds. Blue-points travel, too. They may be born off the shores of Connecticut and reared in New York before they end their days in Great South Bay. Oysters make the Dionne family look silly; a single female bivalve can produce 100,000,000 young in three weeks. If the strain of maternity proves too great, she just changes her sex.

HAS DOG'S ASHES IN SILVER BOX

New York, Oct. 5. — Out on Long Island there is a branch of the S.P.C.A. situated right next to the cemetery of a church. A lady drove up in a limousine and told the astonished animal man that she had come to bury Jimmy. It turned out that Jimmy had been her dog, that he had died of old age, and she had had him cremated. The ashes were now in an engraved silver box.

The man explained that he had nothing to do with the cemetery, but that he would direct her to an animal cemetery, farther out, where the interment of Jimmy's ashes might be arranged.

The weeping lady said no, she guessed she would try to get Jimmy laid to rest in her own family plot.

SAANICH TAX PAYMENTS UP

Large Increase in Amounts to Cover Arrears Reported; Current Levy Higher

An increase of more than 50 per cent in payments on tax arrears this year, compared with 1933, was reported at the Saanich Municipal Hall yesterday morning when a statement on collections was released.

Up to September 30 $47,088 was paid in on arrears, while last year for the same period the municipality had only received $29,740. Current tax payments also show an increase. This year $57,189 has been received compared with $55,775 taken in last year.

Ratepayers who wish to escape tax penalties were warned that the first penalty of 3 per cent will be imposed next Thursday. To accommodate the last minute rush the municipal hall staff will work 10-morogre afternoon until 5 o'clock receiving payments.

The second penalty of 3 per cent will become effective October 23, and on October 31 the last penalty of 4 per cent will be introduced.

"LAST LAUGH" STORIES TOLD

New York, Oct. 5. — Broadway is recalling anecdotes about the late C. B. Dillingham, and the most recent one concerns the gallant old producer's choice of pallbearers, when he knew the end was near. "Barkers would be most appropriate for the job," he told a friend. "They carried me all through life."

Another last-laugh story concerns the time Dillingham and Flo Ziegfeld were pallbearers at the funeral of their friend and theatrical rival, A. L. Erlanger. Walking down the aisle, Dillingham noticed a few vacant seats in the rear. "Too bad," he whispered to Ziegfeld. "It's Abe's last show—and he didn't sell out."

Remember "Poor Butterfly"? C. B. Dillingham made that song; made it almost at the cost of his friends and his sanity. The incident illustrates something of the genius and stubbornness that a successful Broadway producer has to have.

A composer brought the tune to Dillingham, and he liked it. Nobody else did, though. One lyricist after another had a try at writing words, and all of them came back and said, "It's a flop tune, C. B. You'd better junk it." But Dillingham was persistent and finally got some passable lyrics on the Madame Butterfly theme. Over the protests of all his associates he put the song in a show to be sung by a half-caste Japanese.

The result was ghastly, but the song stayed in and all Broadway began sneering at Dillingham's folly. So he took an American girl, a better singer, and gave her the ditty. "Poor Butterfly" saved the show, swept the nation in a week, and sold a million copies.

Few Minutes Eases Neuritis Pains Now!

DISCOVERY BRINGING QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN TO MILLIONS

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin.

Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it. Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show this: Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

Get tin of 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast

Drop an Aspirin tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches the bottom, it is disintegrating.

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach—ASPIRIN tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

Is there a Royal Road to Health?

POSITIVELY, yes — and fortunately this road is open to all—not rough and winding but straight and easy to those who have understanding and the will to travel it. This, and the rewards to those who travel it, are what make it a Royal Road. Those rewards? Physical perfection and a consequent natural immunity from disease.

It seems that I promise too much? Surely only to those who have given scant thought to the place held by Creative Wisdom in the Creative scheme. Do I believe? yes, I know physical perfection and immunity from disease are obtainable! because I enjoy both myself as a reward for obedience, as I shall explain. Read thoughtfully this outline of my philosophy of natural health through natural living habits, leading to a natural immunity from disease, as expounded in my books, especially my basic work "HOW TO BE ALWAYS WELL".

We are created by a Perfect Creator. To create us so that we cannot, if we will, be physically perfect would be Creative bungling.

So is the entire cosmos perfectly created and everything in it is governed by unchangeable laws to maintain that perfection which is the Creative intent or will. If ever a disharmony between the parts develops anywhere in the cosmos, the law steps in and re-establishes universal harmony.

Well, health and disease are things also ruled by laws—the health laws of nature that cannot be changed, withdrawn or broken. Health laws, like all laws, carry with them rewards for obedience and penalties for their disobedience. The reward for obedience is health, and absolute obedience must mean absolute health, and absolute health means immunity from disease. The penalty? Early physical degeneration, disease and premature death. Nature's way of re-establishing cosmic harmony. So, to be healthy—always mentally and physically alert, resilient, jubilant, exuberant, exultant, maintaining a forward look, the fires of life unquenched for decades beyond the time when conventional living habits compel the surrender of all these rewards of a well-lived life—remains a matter of our own will—not wish—wish is static, keeps us standing still. Will is dynamic, does something. That thing is to learn and obey the health laws of Nature. Nothing more is needed.

The very first of these laws, we must eat the kinds of foods Creative Wisdom intended us to eat, since bodies can be no better than the foods that build them. That is logical, undeniable. The pet owner, farmer, stock breeder, all know this. Only civilized man gives no thought to what he ought to eat. Whim, and habits established in a more ignorant age, an evil inheritance from a gluttonous past, govern his choice of foods, which are usually exactly what he ought not to eat. Result? Man, "the pinnacle of Creative effort," is the only animal that suffers extensively from disease. And, paradoxically, the most civilized (?) nations are the most diseased. Sickens costs Canada alone one and a quarter billion dollars a year. How absurd! How tragic! Oh, do think about this awful fact: so constantly in evidence that it does not seem awful, and realize how unnecessary it all is. The way out? Obedience to law. Read my books, especially my basic work "HOW TO BE ALWAYS WELL", a complete health education for only $3.00. Learn there the health laws and obey them, and you can soon defy disease as I do. The starting point? See that 80% of your foods are natural, vital and alkali-forming, and thus re-establish in your body a "normal alkali reserve", your "first defense against fatigue, disease and premature death". Note the percentage for natural, vital and alkali-forming. No wonder that sickness, disease and premature death are omnipresent and stalk like juggernauts of destruction through civilized (?) lands, when only 2% of our conventional foods are natural, vital and alkali-forming. And the cost? Staggering in money value, suffering and emotional strain. Tragedy? Surely the most emotion-stirring our race has ever sustained and would be so considered if it came suddenly upon us, I cannot here present dietetic or other health knowledge of value, but I shall mail it free to those who write for it. Ask for my Bulletin on alkali-forming foods and it and other valuable bulletins will be mailed free. Be sure to write address plainly.

I can only say that Roman Meal, Bekus-Puddy and Lialis are the only alkali-forming grain foods, and Kofy-Sub, a delightful coffee-like beverage, the only alkaline beverage. I have no urge for you to use these but if you do, to a reasonable extent, that will be a splendid start toward being always well. One thing is positive, you will never be constipated; but if you are now constipated, by all means write for my free Bulletin re constipation, follow it and obtain the greatest physical blessing you can ever know. From a photograph of Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., at 75. When 50 years of age, Dr. Jackson was given but four months to live by the famous Sir Wm. Osler, but through natural living habits and the use of alkaline foods Dr. Jackson is today in his 77th year the embodiment of youthful vigor and endurance.

CONDITIONS OF NURSING TOLD

Situation For Graduates and Training Schools Reviewed at Convention

All phases of nursing conditions in British Columbia and the problems which leaders are facing, were brought before the Provincial Nurses' Association at the concluding meeting of the seventeenth annual convention in the Empress Hotel this morning.

A review of the nursing situation was given by Miss Helen Mandel, R.N., registrar of the Graduate Nurses' Association.

Miss Mandel recalled that fourteen years ago she had been asked to speak on the same subject which she was dealing with to-day. In 1919, she said, a survey was completed of the twenty-one training schools in British Columbia and it intrigued her to notice the progress since that time. Standards had been greatly elevated and accommodation generally improved. There were now only nine training schools and the better work of graduate staffs instead of training staffs had been noticed. She did not think training schools were cheaper than graduate staffs, except in the larger hospitals.

To-day, she said, the junior matriculation standard had been introduced, which had proven a distinct benefit in raising the standard.

SIMILAR PROBLEMS

The problems of British Columbia nursing were the same as those in the remainder of Canada, Miss Mandel stated.

In the small towns of the province there was not sufficient nursing being carried on to provide for more graduates.

The survey of the nursing situation by Dr. Weir had crystallized all the imperfect ideas of the problem.

The whole nursing situation had started wrongly and "now we are suffering from this apprentice system," she continued. To meet the accumulation of results of a poor system was the big problem—controlling Canadian nursing, but she could offer no solution to it.

In closing the training schools, many problems were encountered, she said.

Another problem was the unemployment of nurses. Several contributory funds were maintained by employed nurses, she said, and these funds had been utilized to assist unemployed members of the profession. The hospitals had co-operated in this move by providing work where possible.

There had also been different forms of group nursing which had been initiated in an effort to help the general situation.

An acute problem was the influx of graduate nurses from other cities. The local hospitals, naturally, looked after their own graduates primarily and some of the outsiders were being left "high and dry."

Another achievement had been the arranging of an eight-hour day for 33 for patients of moderate means. This allowed the patient three nurses a day at a price which saved one dollar on the regular rate.

Miss Mandel entered a strong plea on behalf of the nurses who only received fifty cents an hour. She did not think there was a man living who would put in nurses' hours. She paid a glowing tribute to their services as the main springs of hospitals.

Careful thought over the elimination of nursing students had also helped the situation. More tests had been introduced and special attention was paid to her personality and background. This was not carried out with the idea of harming anyone, but with the purpose of assisting the student later in her career.

Miss Mandel commented on the Jubilee, Vancouver General and Royal Columbia Hospitals for taking in nurses from training schools which had been closed down.

The provision of an adequate income for nurses had been a difficulty of the situation. Miss Mandel thought there should be a graded scale of income for nurses, according to their ability.

She favored a system of intership for British Columbia nurses, under which nurses would be supervised in their work for two years after graduation.

Reviewing the Canadian situation, she felt there was a more general sense of oneness in the Dominion and all groups were realizing the similarity of problems.

POST-GRADUATE COURSES

In the discussion which followed, Dr. A. E. Haywood, Vancouver, stated Miss Mandel had brought home the fact that there was not a sufficient number of nurses with post-graduate training to take special cases. It was difficult, he said, to convince nurses to take post-graduate courses in order that they might take these positions when they were vacated.

For the benefit of laymen and nurses, J. H. McVety, Vancouver, thought the larger hospitals might be well advised to establish post-graduate courses in hospital administration.

Sister John Gabriel supported the eight-hour day for nurses. She stated also that administrative courses for nurses were available in eastern Canadian universities. She suggested the introduction of such courses at the University of British Columbia.

Miss Grace M. Fairley, R.N., informed the meeting there was an administration course available at the mainland university.

Dr. Harvey Agnew said there was a great deal to be done in regard to this aspect of post-graduate training. The College of Hospital Administration was set up in the United States for this purpose, he said, while these courses were given in Canada at McGill, Toronto and British Columbia universities.

"British Columbia's Response to the Challenge of the Nursing Survey" was the paper given by Miss Mabel Gray, R.N., president of the Graduate Nurses' Association of British Columbia and assistant professor of nursing at U.B.C.

BACKING FOR RATE BUREAU

Ald. McGavin's Motion For Public Board on Fire Rates Gains U.B.C. Acclaim

No resolution submitted to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention in Kamloops was passed with greater enthusiasm than that of Alderman Andrew McGavin's requesting the provincial government to establish a public service rating bureau on fire insurance, Alderman Walter Lunney reported on his return to-day from the gathering. He, along with Aldermen McGavin, Peden and Hawkins were back in town to-day following the sessions.

The rating bureau motion had carried unanimously and had covered two or three similar resolutions placed before the body of the meeting by other delegates, the local alderman stated.

Unanimous support had also been given to a non-political road commission appointed by the provincial government. Great hostility had been aroused over the proposed New Westminster bridge, delegates claiming it would be used as a political football and would be inequitable in its toll system to farmers of the district.

Touching on the drive for new roads, Alderman Lunney stated Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Municipalities, had advised the Victoria delegation to arrange a special committee to meet representatives of the Department of National Defence regarding the Malahat and West Coast Roads. The minister had promised to make an appointment for the meeting and stated the department had a road building programme under consideration. If the Victorians could point out to the department the value strategically of the West Coast road as a defence aid, the chances of the road being built would be greater, the minister said.

The challenge of nursing the sick had been answered during the morning discussion.

The keynote of the last year had been intensive study and the keynote for the next year must be experimental action, she concluded.

Miss Fairley informed the meeting that the Provincial Nurses' Association was to consider a resolution for licensing nurses for hire by the province.

CIVIL ACTION TO PROCEED

Browns Seek Reimbursement From B.C. Assurance Fund in Maynard Affair

H. W. Davey, counsel for Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown, to-day was granted leave by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald of the Supreme Court, to proceed in a civil action against James William Maynard, now waiting to stand criminal trial beginning on October 23 on fraud charges.

The order was issued after a hearing in which A. J. Patton, counsel for Mr. Maynard, and C. H. O'Halloran, counsel for the Attorney-General, opposed the move.

Mr. Davey explained that Mr. and Mrs. Brown turned their house over to Mr. Maynard to sell, conveying it to him at his request. But on the day the property was made over to Mr. Maynard he put a mortgage on it for $2,500. Since the Maynard bankruptcy he has reconveyed the house to the Browns, but the mortgage of $2,500 against it still stands. Mr. and Mrs. Brown now seek to get judgment against Mr. Maynard for the amount and on it seek to collect from the Land Registry assurance fund which comes under the Minister of Finance and is to recompense persons suffering losses by mistake.

Mr. O'Halloran urged that the civil action be put over until after the criminal trial, but Mr. Davey opposed this.

"If Mr. Maynard is acquitted and goes south as he will have the right to do right after he is freed, where will we be?" Mr. Davey asked.

Another reason he said the Browns would like to have judgment against Mr. Maynard as soon as possible was to protect them against any changes in the assurance fund that are contemplated for the coming session of the Legislature.

"Mr. Davey's sole intention is to get a declaration for a breach of trust so he may take it and go to the Minister of Finance and get redemption out of the assurance fund," Mr. O'Halloran said.

Mr. Patton joined Mr. O'Halloran in arguing there was no jurisdiction. "Mr. Davey has got everything he has asked for as Mr. Maynard has given the Browns a promissory note to cover what he has paid so much. It therefore is a proved and acceptable debt," Mr. Patton said.

"To get under the assurance fund we must get leave from the court to commence action," Mr. Davey argued. "The evidence is that no money will be left in the Maynard estate after expenses and preferred claims are met."

The judge ordered that leave be given Mr. Davey to proceed in the civil action on condition that he should not attempt to examine Mr. Maynard until after the criminal proceedings are over. He gave Mr. O'Halloran as the representative of the assurance fund, the right to intervene in the case.

NAVAL VETERAN DIES IN JUBILEE

James Frederick Bligh of 1331 Esquimalt Road passed away yesterday at the Jubilee Hospital, aged fifty-two years. Mr. Bligh was born in Kent, England, and came to Victoria twenty-two years ago as gunner's mate on H.M.C.S. Rainbow. During the war he enlisted in the military forces, serving here, and for some years had been employed in the Naval Yard office.

He was a member of the United Services, A.P. and A.M., Premises Lodge, Loyal Orange Association, and the Naval Veterans' Association. Mr. Bligh is survived by his widow, three sons and one daughter, James P. 1045 Esquimalt Road; John, George and Harriet, at home.

Funeral services, with naval honors, will be held from St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Tuesday afternoon, the hour to be announced later.

WAR VETERAN PASSES AWAY

The death occurred yesterday afternoon at the Royal Jubilee Hospital of Duncan Macmillan in his seventy-fourth year. Mr. Macmillan was born in Inverness, Scotland, and came to Victoria six years ago from Edmonton, Alta., residing at 2717 Victor street.

Deceased was an overseas veteran, and is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. J. M. Potter, at the family residence, also three grandchildren.

A private funeral service will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Carter's Funeral Home. Rev. J. Smith Patterson will officiate and the remains will be laid to rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Want Lake Hill School Reopened

Saanich School Board yesterday evening was petitioned to reopen the Lake Hill School, which was closed a few years ago as an economy measure to save about $800 annually. A delegation from Ward One, headed by D. W. Davis, and armed with a petition of 173 names, interviewed the board and had its claims endorsed by Ward Two and Ward Four representatives.

The petition claimed that health of smaller children was being impaired when they were forced to attend schools a considerable distance from their homes. They were not afforded the opportunity of hot lunches, which, it alleged, was a hardship on their physical constitution.

Chairman W. P. Jeune explained to the delegation the school had been closed in the interests of economy.

Managing Director of Cement Company Finds Optimism in Britain

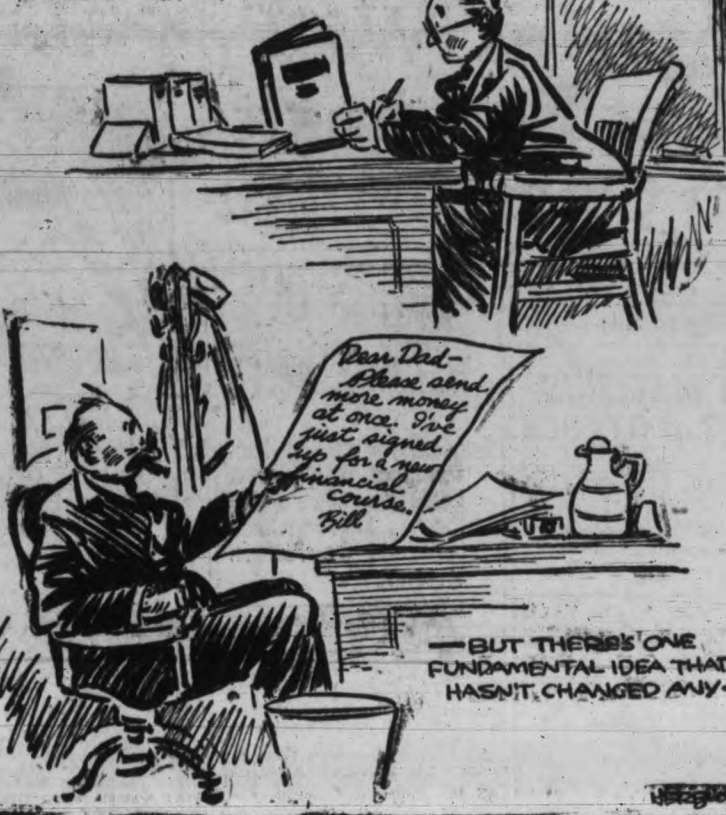

Edwin Tomlin, managing-director of the B.C. Cement Company, and Mrs. Tomlin are back in Victoria after a four months' trip which took them to New York, England, Scotland, Bermuda, France and Spain.

Mr. Tomlin went over on business to see various leaders in the cement industry, but he was able to find time for sight-seeing.

"Conditions are wonderful in Great Britain," said Mr. Tomlin to-day. "We found a great change from the conditions of ten years ago when I made my last visit. Everywhere this time we saw new buildings and factories. The feeling of the people there now is splendid. They are cheerful and optimistic, and we found nobody grumbling or complaining."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

"I was trapped—

with a chance in a thousand—and I made it!"

"When that car suddenly darted out from behind the truck—heading straight for me—I thought it was 'curtains.' I took a wild chance—gave my car the gun—while brakes screamed on all sides of me... how I managed to shoot through that closing gap I never will be able to explain. But I know this much, if my car hadn't had such wonderful pick-up—and if the gasoline had been any less responsive than the Super-SHELL I use—I never would have made it!"

(From an actual letter in Shell Oil Company files at Sacramento)

Why don't all gasolines perform alike?

Here's why:

No two gasolines are exactly the same. That's because there are all kinds of possible blends of those petroleum parts called "fractions."

Some fractions give quicker acceleration. Others increase mileage. Still others deliver steadier power, and so on. But there are also lazy, slow-acting "bottom fractions" and flighty gassy "tops."

We make Super-SHELL more concentrated by removing all wasteful sluggish parts and under-powered "tops." The result is more of the pure pick-up and mileage and power fractions in every gallon.

To get the most out of your car, you need such a concentrated gasoline. Why not fill up with Super-SHELL today and see what a help it is?

Double-header Features Fine Football Card For To-morrow

THE SPORTS ROR

AN AMUSING STORY of how football can be played comes from Belgrade. It appears that a Yugoslav amateur side was so keen to play a rival team that its members climbed a range of mountains over 6,000 feet up in order to do so. Their ardor was dampened before the trip was over. They returned home a week later, limping and forlorn, and carrying two members of the team on improvised stretchers. Did they fall off the mountain? No. They had merely had their wish gratified and played against their rivals. As soon as it was seen that the visitors were winning, the local "fans" began to take a hand in the game. They threw stones, sticks, over-ripe fruit and other missiles at the visiting players. Not in the least deterred by the bombardment, the visitors continued to outplay the home team. The spectators then gathered round the visitors' goal and whenever their own team looked like scoring they seized the wretched goalkeeper by the shorts and jersey and held him to prevent him running out of goal or stopping the shots.

Even so the soccer visitors still lead 3 to 1. The referee then took a hand in the game. The home side were given two goals scored by unfair means, while the three perfect fair goals by the visitors—despite the fact that they were whistled for off-side and fouls on every possible occasion—were disallowed. With the score at 3 to 3, the time for play had elapsed, but the referee did not blow his whistle. He let them play on. Realizing that their team was not going to win by fair means or foul, the spectators invaded the field and began to beat the invading visitors, several of whom were badly hurt. Mounted police and soldiers were called and while they were clearing the ground one of the home forwards, unchallenged, scored a winning goal. The whistle was then blown in case anyone else scored. The spectators went home happy. Their own team had won.

The fond belief that oil is good for cricket bats may be exploded as a result of tests which are being carried out by the Forest Products Division of the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research at Sydney, Australia. Curious as to the custom of oiling bats, the division recently made inquiries as to the reasons for the use of oil on the bats. Various reasons were given, the chief being either because "cricket bats have always been oiled," or "to resist the weather." The latter reason was not advanced on our knowledge," says the division. "The latter is definitely incorrect. The amount of time a bat is exposed to the weather is so small that it is so small that this could not affect its useful life."

When Lucien Popescu, former European featherweight champion, was finishing off his opponent during an open air bout in Roumania the sky suddenly became dark with bricks which began to fall with a thud on the canvas and on to the spectators in the ring. The boxer fled from the ring, while the spectators turned their heads upside down and covered their heads with their hands. However when the boxer left the ring the brick-shower ceased. A search for the miscreants proved fruitless, but it was evident they had been thrown from the top of a high building nearby. It is believed that their target was the boxer, but the referee, British and United States referees no longer offer their services as referees in Roumania. The last incident to do so had a narrow escape.

Seven Soviet athletes whose ages ranged from twenty-one to thirty-six have established what is claimed to be a world record for cross country running. They ran from Engels, in the Volga region, to Moscow, in eleven days, covering the 550 miles on ninety-six hours' running. During the trip they had to swim across twenty-five rivers, including the Volga at a spot nearly half a mile wide, and with a current of three miles an hour. Despite this, the runners averaged nearly six miles an hour and covered about fifty miles a day. At the finish the runners were examined by a medical commission, who found that none of the athletes had undergone any essential physiological changes. The doctors noted that despite the long and rough journey, which was covered in ordinary rubber shoes, not a single runner had sore feet.

Basketball Games Billed at Sooke

Two exhibition basketball games will be played at Sooke to-morrow evening, with the first fixture commencing at 8 o'clock. In the opening attraction Sooke and Royal Oak senior quintettes will meet. They will be followed by the Hudson's Bay and Sooke fair senior quintettes. Dancing and refreshments will follow the hoop games.

Manager Laurie Wooster of the Bays has lined up a formidable team and will be out after his first victory of the season. Coached by Ed. "Buck" Rutledge, the departmentals, who are competing in the Sooke Senior League this winter, will have the following girls in uniform: Hilda Bodo, Gladys Cook, Ellen "Bobo" Essler, Phyllis Butts, Kay Tyrie, Florence Anderson, Winnie Ford, Irene Stewart and Helen Beck.

Camden, N.J., Oct. 5.—Vic Christy, 210, California, won a two-fall victory over Rudy Dusek, 215, Omaha, yesterday evening. He won the first fall with a body slam in 2:16, and the second in 18:27 with a body press.

The Thistles made a victory to make certain of holding their place at the head of the league, and also to keep their unbeaten record to date. The Saanich eleven will be strengthened by the return to the game of Noel Morgan, clever outside left, possessing lots of speed and a wicked shot. Morgan is a valuable man on the front line.

DOCKERS CHANGE TEAM

Esquimalt will test out a revamped line-up to-morrow and one they hope will take the Thistles into camp. The Dockers, winners of the city championship last season, as yet, have not shown to their expected form, but no doubt will be in the thick of the fight at the end of the season.

The second match between the Wests and City is certain to give the fans lots of entertainment. The Greenhairs have a smart club this season and with Ernie Beiderberg, smooth-working forward out for the first time to-morrow, they will be even stronger. Both the Wests and City combine speed and combination, and as a result the play should be of the best. Although beaten in their first two engagements—the City players have shown lots of promise.

The Junior League matches to-morrow will herald the opening of the season for the youngsters. One of the teams for to-morrow follows:

Victoria City, first division—Hood, Griffin, Baker, Moore, Robbins, Gibson, G. G. Payne, E. Bayne, Hopper, Smith, Hodgson, Barnwell, Storer and Gibson.
Saanich Thistles, first division—Joe Watt, A. Murray, H. Wallace, J. Hay, J. McEay, A. Murray, A. Stewart, H. Peppin, A. Wagland and A. Barnwell. Substitutes: John Watt, A. March, J. Murray and V. Hicks.
Esquimalt, first division—DeCosta, Fraser, Jacklin, Miles, Gagnon, Peckbold, Duncan, Hicks, Hay and Harris. Substitutes: Wright, Anson, McParlane, Victoria West, first division—Restell, Lorandini, Laird, Storey, Barnes, Stewart, Bell, Youson, Robinson, Peers, Collins and Bettebridge.

ROWE IS UP WITH GREATS

Schoolboy's Pitching Performance Against St. Louis Yesterday as Fine as Anything Seen in World Series in Thirty Years

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe stands to-day alongside the pitching giants of world series history, towering as mightily and casting as big a shadow now across the chances of the St. Louis Cardinals as Jerome (Dizzy) Dean did in his Jungtstown debut two days ago.

The world series record books fall to show any nine-inning stretch of pitching, over a thirty-year span, superior to the blazing finish of the twenty-two-year-old, six-foot-four-inch boy from El Dorado, Ark., who mowed down the Cardinals from the fourth to the twelfth inning, allowing only one hit, facing only twenty-eight batters, and "tossing" not a single base on balls during the entire game.

OTHER GREAT DISPLAYS

The nearest comparisons to Rowe's spectacular feat, in his world series debut, were the feats of big Ed Rubeck, old right-hander of the Chicago Cubs, Herb Pennock of the 1927 New York Yankees and George Earnshaw of the Philadelphia Athletics. Rubeck scored a one-hit victory over the Chicago White Sox in the 1906 series within the regulation nine innings, a performance that is the closest to the books to a perfect game.

Pennock pitched no-hit, no-man-reached-first-base ball for the first seven innings of a game against the Pittsburgh Pirates seven years ago. In the 1901 series between the Athletics and Cardinals, Earnshaw, big right-handed speedball artist of the A's, blanked the Cards in the fourth game, 3 to 0, yielding only two hits. Earnshaw issued a single pass in that game but retired the National League in order in the other six innings.

BALL SERIES TO CONTINUE

Columbus-Toronto Meet in Fifth Game of Little World Series To-night

Columbus, O., Oct. 5.—Leading by three games to one in the battle for their second consecutive little world series crown, and with the team in good shape as a result of three days of rest, the Columbus Red Birds will tangle to-night with the Maple Leafs of Toronto, champions of the International League.

The Birds, American Association titleholders for the second straight year, won the first two games of the series, dropped the third, and then took the fourth as Ed Heusser, a former major league pitcher, and Blades is planning to send Ed Greer, right-hander, who won the opener, back at the Leafs to-night, but was worried over a cold Greer was nursing. If Greer can't make it, Klinger probably will get the job.

The next game is scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

B.C. Track Rating High In East Now

Prestige of Far Western Athletes Boosted By Recent Running Crop, Says Ray Lewis, Hamilton Star Here on Visit

Carried forward by the driving legs of Joe Addison, Howie McPhee, Marshall Lyman and other westerners who extended their running activities to eastern tracks last season, British Columbia's challenge has gained respect in the eyes of the Dominion track authorities resident in the east, according to Ray Lewis, Hamilton's British Empire and Olympic quarter miller.

Here to-day on a flying visit, the rangy, nicely-spoken athlete was renewing friendships with Joe Addison, his teammate and rival on the Canadian British Empire squad, and other acquaintances here.

Asked about Addison's chances in the future, as he talked with Archie McKinnon in the local Y.M.C.A., the Hamilton flash voiced assurance that Lewis' boy could look forward to more triumphs.

JOE RIGHT THERE
"Joe's right there," Lewis commented. "The way he passed me in the quarter mile semi-final in England proved that."

Although unwilling to commit himself, he expressed the opinion that Addison had not much longer to run in the mile company, the fastest of which he has dominated in the half mile for several years.

"After his last race in England, he could not speak. He finished the last thirty yards on sheer grit and nerve," Lewis stated.

Twenty-four years old next Monday, Lewis does not figure himself good for much running. He has been invited to run in New York this winter, but is placing his hopes chiefly on participating in the Milrose Games feature, which brings together the cream of the quarter mile men on the continent. Only six performers are scheduled in the event.

YOUNGSTERS COMING UP
"It is a long time," Lewis remarked as he glanced back over his own track performances which started before the Amsterdam Olympic games. He was just beaten for a place on the Canadian team for that meet. However, replacements will not be lacking to fill both his shoes and those of Edwards, in the coming season. A lot of good youngsters coming right along, he stated.

Asked what he had made of his athletic, Lewis stated his chief regard was in friendships which he had established with some of the boys against whom he had run in traveling on trips to various meets. If they get a job, he would take it like a flash, he said.

Speaking of the opportunities of track stars in Eastern Canada, Lewis refused the general impression that they could secure positions at will.

"Not three runners in Hamilton are working," he said.

But the situation from the sport is not lacking, to his mind.

"Some fellows spend their time around pool halls. I'd rather keep in with the fellows who are working."

"I've traveled with all sorts of sporting teams, but I've never met a finer bunch than you run across in track and field. Friendships you make with the type you meet running is ample reward for the time you put into the game," he remarked.

CHANCES IN U.S.
In the United States the plums for the game were greater, he continued. College education was available for the best. He had been offered courses at New York University, Syracuse and Marquette and had spent a little time at the latter institution.

Right now those academically equipped for scholastic studies could secure educations at Alex Wilson's university, Loyola, where they had to devote academically as well as in sport, Lewis said.

After his day's visit here, Lewis left this afternoon for Vancouver to resume his duties on the C.P.R. sleeping cars. But if he gets a chance to come back, he'll be visiting Victoria again.

Football Elevens Revamp Line-ups

Several Clubs in English League Will Trot Out New Players For To-morrow's Matches; Manchester City Will Act as Hosts to Blackburn Rovers

London, Oct. 5.—Fresh faces will be seen on a number of teams as the clubs of the English Football League resume warfare to-morrow. Plenty of activity in the transfer market has occurred during the week, the majority of teams attempting to remedy weak spots while the season is yet young.

Chelsea, which has lost six games out of eight, and finds the fans screaming for more power on the attack, yesterday secured the services of R. Spence, Barnsley's clever outside right. Spence will be on the field when the Pensioners meet Everton.

Manchester City cupholders entertain Blackburn Rovers, at present near the bottom of the first division table. Sunderland, half a game behind in second place, also have an easy fixture with Middlesbrough.

BASTIN MAY BE OUT
The Arsenal, league champions, go to Stoke City, whose eleven is only a point behind the Arsenal and travelling fast. Preston is at home to the battling Derby County outfit. Bastin, their international, is a doubtful starter for Arsenal.

Wills Evans, hurt in the England-Wales international fray a week ago, is not likely to be in the lineup when the Spurs meet Leicester City. He is troubled with broken teeth. He is unfit, Hedley will take his place.

Portsmouth will go to Birmingham. Tom Grover, international inside-right, will make his first appearance for the Blues. Barkis is also returning to the side after injuries.

Bolton Wanderers, second division leaders, clash with Barnsley in the feature match of the second division programme. In the third southern, however, anything may happen.

Charlton Athletic, leading by a single point, will take on the dangerous Crystal Palace outfit.

Chester and Tranmere Rovers are tied for leadership of the northern section. Chester is at home to Southport, while Tranmere visits Rotherham United.

Glasgow, Oct. 5.—Unless the unexpected happens, Glasgow Rangers, champions of the Scottish Football League, and leaders of the Scottish Cup, will still be leading the race following to-morrow's programme.

At present running a half-game ahead of Clyde and St. Johnstone, the Rangers will go to Alderrough's ground to-morrow, while the runners-up are both drawn away against tough opponents. St. Johnstone will go to Dundee and Clyde to Fir Park, where Motherwell needs a couple of points to put them up near the top.

Hamilton and Hearts bracketed a game and a half behind the leaders, likewise play away games. Hamilton will meet Partick and Hearts at St. Mirren, and both the home sides are in a desperate mood with only two wins out of ten matches.

Third Lanark, demoted this year and still leading the second division, will be at home to Stenhousemuir.

Shall Retains His State Ring Title

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 5.—Arthur "Pink" Shull, 170, Tacoma, retained his state light-heavyweight ring title here yesterday evening when he punched out a decision in eight rounds over James J. Jordan, 175½.

Vancouver. Shull dropped Jordan for two tolls with a hard right to the head in the sixth and battered him considerably in some of the other rounds.

45,000 SEE ST. LOUIS CARDINALS TAKE WORLD SERIES OPENER

The temporary bleachers at Navin Field, Detroit, packed an hour before game time as the St. Louis Cardinals and the Detroit Tigers opened play in the 1934 series for the world baseball championship. Threatening weather in the morning was blamed for the lack of a few thousand fans who would have made it a capacity crowd. The opening game was won by the Cards, 8 to 3, behind the steady pitching of Dizzy Dean.

FIERY FRISCH HAS TO COOL OFF AFTER CARDS DROP THRILLING GAME

Manager of St. Louis Cardinals Orders Newspapers Out of the Room Until His Rage Works Off Following Detroit's World Series Victory Yesterday; Tigers Celebrate

Detroit, Oct. 5.—Murder was in the hearts of St. Louis Cardinals as they charged into their dressing room, all of them with faces burning with rage, after they had dropped a heart-breaking game to Detroit Tigers in the twelfth inning yesterday.

Frankie Frisch, fiery little leader of the National League champions, was so enraged he ordered newspaper correspondents awaiting him out of the room until he had time to cool off, or perhaps tell some of his players just what he thought of them.

"It was a tough game to lose," he blurted out later. "We shouldn't have lost it. Our defence wasn't what it should have been. Halahan pitched a wonderful game but the team that got the break won it."

THE BREAK
Frisch, no doubt, was referring to the incident in the ninth inning when Gerald Walker, pinch-hitting for Jo-Jo White, Tiger centrefielder, popped a high fly along the first base foul line and both Delaney, the Cardinals' catcher, and Rip Collins, first baseman, through a mix-up, allowed it to fall without either making an attempt to catch it. Two seconds later Walker singled, scoring Fox with the tying run.

"I don't care what anybody says, I still love to win," Frisch yelled. "breaks or no breaks. I came near losing the game away myself. No body is perfect and we all make mistakes but I think we booted away today's game."

The Cardinals, red-necked and fighting mad, tossed their baseball equipment around the room in an expression of their anger.

TIGERS JUBILANT
Over in the Tiger dressing room all was hilarity with Goose Goslin, whose single drove in the winning run, and Schoolboy Rowe, coming in for a tremendous back-slapping and handshaking.

When the players stormed through the door, they surrounded Goslin, pounded him on the back, grasped him by the hand or kicked him in the pants.

Manager Mickey Cochrane said he felt his Tigers were on their way to victory and ready to start hitting. "Didn't Rowe pitch a swell game?" he asked. "I'll tell the 200,000-eyed world."

LASKY WILL MEET HAMAS
Two Promising Heavyweights Open New York Indoor Boxing To-night

New York, Oct. 5.—The business of building up a heavyweight championship fight for next summer which will be attractive enough to the public to justify the outlay of cash begins to-night with the opening of the new winter fistic season in Madison Square Garden.

Art Lasky, the big boy from Minneapolis, and Steve Hamas, who is still remembered as the greatest all-around athlete ever produced at Penn State College, clash in the indoor curtain raiser, a ten-round affair.

Later in the year two former heavyweight champions, Primo Carnera and Max Schmeling, and Jack Peterson, promising English heavyweight, will be tossed into the lists.

When the winter programme is finished the garden management hopes to have discovered a worthy challenger for Max Baer's title.

Three Games Open Hoop Play To-night

Panorium and Unitys to Raise Curtain on 1934-35 Season; Deals to Play Regents; Colonist Will Meet West Road

Two squads figured to go a long way in the local women's Senior B League will formally usher in the 1934-35 basketball season at Victoria High School gym this evening when Panorium girls and the Unitys step on to the floor at 7.30 o'clock for the initial fixture of a three-game bill. In the other two games Deals will meet the Regents and the Colonist will play West Road.

Followers of the game will be looking at one team at least which promises to flash as bright basketball as has been seen here among the fair sex for some time when Allie LeMarquand's brood open their campaign. With a list of players and substitutes stronger than he has had for some time, Le Marquand hopes to push his team through to playoff honors in what may prove his final year as a coach.

In addition to Mary Wilson, Ruby Bethell, Eleanor Trotter, Ellen Bernard and Peggy Carney of last year's regulars, the squad will be strengthened by Gert Taylor, Mary Peden and Lucille Spark.

YOUNG TEAM
Wally Yeamans has gathered together a group, chiefly youngsters, that may well develop into a smart aggregation as the season wears along. With Evelyn Johnstone, Rita Weeks and "Buddy" Elston as the backbone for his quintette, he has lined up several young corners including Lillian Laird, Vera Edwards, Evelyn Thoren, Ann Clemonoff and Eva Elston. While he may suffer from his team's comparative lack of experience at the opening, Yeamans should have a good little brigade battling when they have a few games under their belts.

At 8.20 o'clock Deals and Regents, titleholders and runners-up last season, will renew their rivalry in the men's Intermediate A section.

INTERMEDIATE GAME
Deals will have Herb Lansdell, Pete Campbell and Ralph Sheppard ready for guard duty and Carl Coates, Harold McLean and Jim Robb on deck as forwards, with Roy Taylor operating as pivot man.

Ken Fleming should add strength to the Regents' club, which will also include Bill Hudson, Ken Noskes, Dave McAdam and Fred Minnie, as defence men, and Bill Wallis, "Chuck" Young.

The arena will be packed to the doors to-night for the first game of the five-game series. The teams will play again Monday and Wednesday. The Terriers have not lost a game since the eastern playoffs started.

The Salmonbellies went through a brisk workout on their arrival yesterday. Spring had them shooting high ones, low ones, wide ones—all hot ones—at Goals Henry Baker. Several hundred spectators watched the work-out and were particularly impressed with the work of Bill Anderson, defence player; little Allie Davey, sharp-shooting forward, and the colorful Baker.

LAWN BOWLING

The annual prize-giving social of the Burnside Lawn Bowling Club was held in Hampton Hall yesterday evening when a large attendance of members and their friends were in attendance.

In his opening remarks, President A. W. Stewart referred in glowing terms to the very excellent showing made by Burnside members in the last Victoria tournament, when nearly 50 per cent of the prizes were awarded to Burnside men and women bowlers. He also paid tribute to the splendid spirit of good fellowship so evident in the Burnside club, which, he thought, had something to do with this year's record in open events. At the conclusion of his address, President Stewart warmly thanked the Burnside women for their splendid co-operation during the last season.

Prizes for the club were then awarded as follows:
Trustees' Trophy (singles)—1, F. Harman; 2, E. Eastham.
Bentley Cup (handicap singles)—1, F. Holmes; 2, F. Harman.
Lawrie Trophy (club doubles)—1, A. Warder and F. Harman; 2, J. F. Hibben and F. Holmes.

Godwin Cup (Labor Day triples), presented by Mrs. Washington—1, Mrs. Mercer, G. Bryant and D. Ramsay; 2, Mrs. Cook, A. Waterworth and A. W. Stewart.

Godwin Cup (challenge doubles)—1, E. Eastham and J. Mercer.
Special practice singles—W. Tupman, G. Vallance and G. Bryant.
Saturday afternoon rinks—H. Holmes, J. Hibben, G. Bryant, W. Tupman.

At the conclusion of the presentation, the president of the Burnside Women's Club, Mrs. T. Deveson, after a few well-chosen remarks, presented the prizes to members of this club as follows: Dealey Cup (club singles)—1, Mrs. Mowat; 2, Mrs. Davidson.
Eastham Cup (pennant singles)—Mrs. Deveson.
Club doubles—1, Mrs. Washington and Mrs. Hancock; 2, Mrs. Findlay and Mrs. Deveson.

Liberal Cup (challenge doubles)—Mrs. Eastham and Mrs. A. W. Stewart.
Saturday afternoon rinks—Mrs. Acrcman, Mrs. Deveson, Mrs. Findlay and Mrs. Mowat.

A very enjoyable evening was spent following the presentation of prizes when a 500 party for those present took place. Mrs. Hancock winning first ladies' prize, and Mrs. F. Mowles second, with a Playfair capturing first men's, closely followed by J. Hancock.

The evening's entertainment concluded with a very interesting and humorous movie show depicting various local lawn bowlers in action on the green, given by T. Waterworth, to whom the thanks and appreciation of those present were tendered.

Refreshments, generously served by the Burnside women, wrote "finis" to a very enjoyable evening.

due to natural causes, a medical examiner reported.

A YOUNG man was telling me about the girl he is going to marry. "She is pretty and intelligent and highly educated and a good sport and has the sweetest disposition in the world," he said. "In fact, she is just everything a man could want in a wife, except for one thing, and that is that she is his partner, his companion, and it hasn't even entered her head that you want her to be a slave that you can order about or an imbecile whose mind you will have to make up for her. A fat chance a husband has of being obeyed when he marries the modern girl!"

"Your fears are well grounded," I replied. "Because it will never even occur to her that you expect her to play the role of Patient Griselda. She, poor soul, is marrying you under the delusion that a wife stands on an equality with her husband. That she is his partner, his companion, and it hasn't even entered her head that you want her to be a slave that you can order about or an imbecile whose mind you will have to make up for her. A fat chance a husband has of being obeyed when he marries the modern girl!"

"Every man wants to feel superior to his wife and that he has authority over her," insisted the young man. And I smiled and sighed, for well I knew that he was speaking the truth and that it is the prevailing male vanity that makes men feel that they must dominate their wives that is responsible for as much domestic grief as any other one thing, and that turns many a home into a battleground where a forty years' civil war rages, that never ends until one or the other of the contestants for the throne is laid away in the grave.

Why men like to look down upon their wives is hard to explain, but they all have that craving and it is the reason why they so often marry as they do. It is why the female meron can marry seven times to the college graduate's once, and why so many husbands are abroad in the land seeking the companionship of ladies who can understand them.

The intellectual man, taking him by and large, for of course there are exceptions to the rule, doesn't pick out a wife with a brain as good as his own who will keep him stimulated and interested. He chooses some little nitwit who regards him as an oracle and never knows what he is talking about, and she bores him to death. The ambitious man who is fighting his way to the front doesn't select as a mate a woman who has strength of character and backbone and who would shove him up the ladder. He chooses a little rubber stamp with no ideas of her own, thinking he can lay down the law to her on every subject, and too late discovers that there is no other human being so obstinate and unmovable as a fool.

The appeal of the clinging-vine woman has always been that she made some man feel that a big, strong, sturdy oak he was, and it she choked him to death eventually he probably got his money's worth. At any rate, every girl baby is born knowing that the way to get her man is by sitting at his feet and gazing up worshipfully at him while she ohs and ahs with awe at everything he does and tells him how wonderful he is.

And these tactics go after marriage just as well as before. A man's ego requires that he be officially recognized as the head of the house and as long as his wife does this he is happy and contented and as long as she has judgment enough to ask his opinion on every subject from sterilizing the baby's milk to what color hat she shall buy, she may do as she pleases. He may secretly know that she doesn't take his advice, but he is bound to have that little gesture of subservience.

It doesn't make for a successful marriage for the grey mare to be the better horse. As soon as she takes the lead and begins pulling the family load her mate is mighty apt to jump the bars, as husbands who forsake splendid wives for some silly flapper before whom they can strut and pose as little tin gods.

This mania that men have for wanting their wives to be subservient to them explains why virtually every woman who achieves any distinction pays for it by losing her husband. The ratio of divorce among famous women is appalling. I have known hundreds of them, and in all that number there have not been six who have had a happy home life or husbands who sympathized with them in their work or glorified with them in their success as a wife does in her husband's achievements.

This was not because there was any fault in the women, but because their husbands could not stand having their wives more prominent than they were. They could not endure playing second fiddle to their wives. They like the money their wives made and the doors their wives opened for them, but they writhed under being known as their wives' husbands.

And this feeling is universal. It is never safe to praise a woman to her husband for anything but her beauty or her cooking, and he regards no insult so deadly as to be called Mr. Mary Smith, no matter how great and good Mary is nor what wonders she has performed.

Perhaps the men of the future will overcome this superiority complex. They will have to, if they want to be happy married, for the wives who are obedient and subservient to their husbands are mighty scarce, and getting scarcer every day. DOROTHY DIX.

Uncle Wiggily on the Roof

By HOWARD R. GARIS
One day Nurse Jane Fussy Wuzzie said to Uncle Wiggily: "There is a hole in the roof. Yesterday some rain leaked in on me while I was making a chocolate cake." "Where on the roof is the leak?" asked the rabbit gentleman. "Over the kitchen," said Nurse Jane. "Otherwise the rain wouldn't have dripped in on me when I was making the cake." "That's so," agreed Mr. Longears. "Well, I'll get an old rubber boot and mend the leak. I'll take a piece from the leg of an old rubber boot and glue it over the hole. That ought to keep out the rain." "It ought to," said the muskrat lady housewife. "How are you going to get up on the roof? You can't climb like the Bob Cat." "Don't mention that Bad Chap's name, if you please," said the bunny uncle as he twiddled his whiskers. "I don't want him to come around when I am up on the roof." "But you haven't told me how you are going to get up there," said Nurse Jane. "I am going to climb up on a ladder the same as the carpenter does, or a painter or a plumber," the rabbit answered. "And as it isn't raining now this will be a good time to mend the leak in the roof."

CUTS A PATCH
Uncle Wiggily cut, with his wife's scissors, a patch from the leg of an old rubber boot. He found some glue he had made from the sticky gum of a pine tree and then, getting a ladder from Uncle Butter, the goat bill poster next door, Mr. Longears was ready to mend the leaky roof. He placed the ladder against the side of the kitchen wall, climbed up with the rubber patch and the pine tree glue and started to work. "Oh, ho!" sneered the Bob Cat to himself. "Uncle Wiggily is having some work done on the roof. The Bob Cat looked higher and saw the bunny-sneak up the tree near the bungalow. Then Uncle Wiggily can't get down. Next I'll climb this tree near the bungalow and from the top of the tree I can easily jump over on the roof and I'll have him! I'll have him! Ha! Ha! Ha!" The Bob Cat laughed, but Uncle Wiggily didn't laugh. He was a few seconds late, he saw the ladder pushed away and saw the Bob Cat leap down on the roof near where he had just finished mending the leak.

GLUE STICKS FAST
"Meow! Meow!" howled the Bob Cat. "I've got you now! You can't get off the roof for it's too high to jump from. The ladder is gone, and you can't climb down that. What are you going to do to stop me from nibbling you this time! Ha! Ha! Ha!" "Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, all of a sudden. "What's so funny?" the Bob Cat wanted to know. "I've just thought of a funny way to stop you from nibbling me," said the bunny, still laughing. "Let me see," thought the Bad Chap. "He doesn't jump off the roof, and I pushed the ladder away so he can't climb down. Ha! Ha! You can't stop me from nibbling you!" he growled, and he rubbed at Uncle Wiggily with open mouth. "What about that?" asked the bunny. With that he smeared some sticky glue on a piece of rubber boot he had left and clapped it over the mouth of the Bad

NEW CAPTAIN FOR JACKSON

Capt. C. G. Hansen Will Relieve Capt. M. M. Jensen For One Trip

On his way to Seattle to take command of the liner President Jackson and take her on a round-trip voyage to the Orient, Capt. Charles G. Hansen reached Victoria yesterday evening from San Francisco aboard the Ss. Emma Alexander.

Capt. Hansen has been master of the Ss. H. F. Alexander all summer and early this week took her into San Francisco Bay, where she will remain tied up for the winter months. On the bridge of the President Jackson, Capt. Hansen will relieve Capt. M. M. Jensen, who is going on an ashore vacation at his home in Seattle. Capt. Hansen brought the Jackson to this port on Tuesday morning from the Orient. Capt. Hansen will take her out from Victoria on Saturday, October 13.

For many years Capt. Hansen was master of trans-Pacific liners, linking the Pacific Coast of North America with the Orient. During the last two years he has been master of coastwise liners of the Pacific Steamship Lines and immediately before that served that company in San Francisco.

Also arriving here yesterday evening by the Emma was Harry C. Proctor, who had been chief steward of the H. F. Alexander all summer. He will holiday at his home in Seattle, and will then be appointed to another ship of the fleet.

Shipping Ends At Churchill

Churchill, Man., Oct. 5.—Marketing its most successful season, navigation closed yesterday out of Churchill, Manitoba's northern seaport.

The Brandon and the Ashworth, with cargoes for European points, sailed yesterday and no other boats are scheduled to dock here between now and October 10, official date for the close of navigation.

Fifteen ships came into the three-year-old port to load cargoes and sail for distant cities, marking the greatest number of vessels that have visited the port in any season since it first opened.

During the short shipping season, exports included 4,000,000 bushels of wheat, 4,000 tons of lumber, 200 head of cattle, 2,000,000 feet of lumber, eight tons of honey and two small shipments of household goods.

Find Snakes In Banana Stems

Vancouver, Oct. 5.—Two venomous diamond cobra adders from the American tropics were added yesterday to the growing collection of snake exhibits in possession of Geo. W. Head, superintendent of Ballantyne Pier.

Longshoremen handling 5,000 stems of bananas off a vessel from Central America shook the two well-kept serpents from a banana cluster. They were quickly killed. One was more than two feet long, the other slightly smaller, with slender necks and wide, flat, triangular heads.

A similar snake was killed several weeks ago after it had fallen from a banana stem and Mr. Head retained the skin.
